EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

APPARENTLY the Hill boom is not a mountain.

ONLY three licenses have been granted in Juniata county.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has promised to be in New York city on Memorial day.

The two best papers in the state, Philadelphia Press and Bellefonte Republican for $2.00 a year.

THE world is coming more and more to believe in M. Pasteur and his prevention of the rabies.

LORD WOLSELEY says that the army and navy of England are inadequate for emergencies which may arise.

THERE are people who are mean enough now to say it would be a good idea to make Minister Phelps Chief Justice just to get another man in England.

WE are of opinion that the laws governing the importation of foreigners to this country need revision as much as any other laws and much more than the revenue law.

An eccentric man who died recently in Barron county, Ky., had not seen his father or brother for thirty years, although living within three miles of them and being on good terms with them. He was blind.

IT is interesting to read in a New York paper a reproof of the English people for letting Charles Lamb's grave remain uncared for, and then reflect on the marked rate of speed with which the Grant monument is not erected.

D. F. FORTNEY, in his educational arbor day speech, the other day, remarked that he does not know the age of the big oak on the new public school grounds. We hope he wont go up there some night and cut it down for the purpose of learning its age.

THERE is not one American in twenty who is not clad from head to foot, out and out, with American products—his coat, hat, boots, linen and flannels. His watch, his knife, his pencil, his gloves, and his jewelry are also American products.

SUNSET COX has introduced in Congress a bill to divide railway postal clerks into six classes, with salaries ranging from $900 to $1,800 per year. The largest named is none too much if the clerk is competent to do his work, and perhaps the increase will of itself draw out Democratic applicants who can read writing without putting their tongues out!

THE New York Senate on Thursday last by a vote of 17 to 15, passed the Crosby High License bill as it came from the Assembly. The seventeen votes for the bill were all Republicans and the 15 negative votes, composed of 11 Democrats and 4 Republicans. The general license fee is fixed at from $300 to 1,000, and malt liquor license from $100 to $400.

THE Ohio Legislature adjourned without passing the two-cent-a-mile passenger rate bill pending before that body. The measure was an extreme one, and it was just as well that it was not passed. But it still remans an interesting fact that while freight rates have come down in the past ten years passenger rates have not, except as an occasionel State legislator or influential politician travels free.

THE Chicago Railway Age announces that 1,096 miles of new railroad track were lain in the United States from January 1 to April 1, 1888. During the corresponding time in 1887 1,040 miles were laid. When it is considered how remarkably unfavorable the first three months of the year have been for outdoor work the activity in track laying has been the more remarkable. There is no expectation, however, that the remainder of the year will keep any where near the record of 1886, when over 12,000 miles of railway were built.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

The following platform of party principles was adopted by the Republicans in State Convention, last week:

First—We assert the simple proposition that the free right to vote according to law and to have that vote counted, is the foundation of American representative government. Representation in Congress and in the electoral college is apportioned on the basis of the population, and a large portion of that population in certain sections is notoriously excluded from the exercise of the right of suffrage. A narrow majority of the House of Representatives is thus maintained which threatens to enact radical legislation hostile to the interests of our country. Such government is no longer free, but tyrannical. With due consideration for the difficulties of the situation we demand of Congress that it enact such legislation as shall secure the fair election for members of Congress and the electoral college.

Second—We declare that the object of the American system of tariff legislation, besides securing revenue, is the protection of American industry. The wonderful prosperity of this country is the best evidence of the success of this policy, and the most conservative care should be taken in disturbing the many industrial interests which have grown up under this system. The principle of all American legislation is to secure the happiness, the elevation, prosperity and independence of each individual American citizen, and this principle is best maintained by a protective tariff, which has for its object the fair compensation of American labor. The last message of President Cleveland is an open assault upon our industries, which will, if unrestricted, result in a policy of free trade, which in the near future will paralyze or destroy these industries, reduce the compensation of labor and imperil the nation.

Third—Inasmuch as we have a large debt unpaid, harbors unimproved and fortifications in decay, inadequate public buildings for the purpose of government, and a navy incapable of commanding the respect due the dignity of a great nation, the Democratic administration is responsible for allowing the accumulation of a large surplus in the United States Treasury which should have been appropriated for these purposes. Excessive revenues can and should be prevented by the reduction or repeal of the internal taxes.

Fourth—We protest against the attempt of the Democratic party in Congress to strike down the wool growing industry by placing its product on the free list, as provided for in the Mills bill. Conservative estimates by leading wool growers and manufacturers places the number of persons dependent for their support upon wool growing at several millions, the number of acres dependent for their value upon it at $100,000,000, and the loss in wages and the value of land and in its produce, which the withdrawal of protection from this one industry would entail upon the country, is $300,000,000. The only persons who would be benefitted by this enormous loss are foreign producers.

Fifth—It is the duty of Congress to pass, and of the President to approve a wise, just and comprehensive pension bill, giving relief to disabled veterans soldiers, and subsistence to the helpless widows and orphans of deceased soldiers, without regard to the time when disability was incurred, or the cause of death. Our great and prosperous country can afford to show our great appreciation by making liberal provision for these purposes.

Sixth—The people of Pennsylvania unqualifiedly condemn the refusal of the Democratic majority of the House of Representatives to permit the passage of the direct tax refunding bill passed by the Republican Senate, by which it was intended to repay to the loyal States, without interest, the money paid by them at the beginning of the war to aid in suppressing the rebellion, and to cancel the unpaid balance, principle and interest, due from the rebel States upon said taxes, and we denounce as treacherous and cowardly the surrender of the Northern Democrats in Congress to the small majority of the ex-Confederates and their allies and the abandonment of the bill, which, if passed, would have contributed over $1,500,000 to the relief of the taxpayers of Pennsylvania.

Seventh—We, as a party, as rapidly as practicable enacted legislation looking to a pure business administration of the government and a system of civil service, in defence to a strong, recognized public sentiment against the abuse of the spoils system. A Democrat President was elected largely on the issue of civil service reform, upon pledges which guaranteed an immediate remedy of existing abuses. These pledges have been notoriously violated, removals from office have been made without cause in a more sweeping manner than at any other time in the history of American political parties, and Federal patronage has been boldly and constantly used for partisan purposes.

Eighth—We recognize the strength of sentiment in this Commonwealth relative of the evils and abuses of the sale of liquor, and we favor all laws looking in this respect to the elevation of the moral condition of the people. We therefore repeat our pledge to submit the question of prohibition to a vote of the people.

Ninth—We earnestly protest against the passage by Congress of the "Dunn Free Ship bill," which has been reported to the House by the Democratic majority of the Committee on Merchant Marine, or any other similar measure as calculated to work an injustice to American labor by imperiling the livelihood of a large number of workers in wood, metals and other materials who are engaged in American ship-building industries, and who should have home protection as other wage-workers.

Tenth—We favor the enactment of a law that will allow the laborer an exemption to the amount of $300 from levy and sale upon an execution, so as to secure this privilege absolutely to him and his family.

Eleventh—We recommend such revision of the revenue laws of the state as will impose upon corporations a taxation equal in amount to that from which they are exempted in the judicial decisions recently rendered.

Twelfth—We endorse the high personal integrity, lofty aims, executive ability, and faithful enforcement of the laws by Governor Beaver, which have won the praise of all good citizens.

GENERAL HASTINGS HANDSOME VOTE

Figures do not deceive. They prove that General D. H. Hastings is the most popular man in Pennsylvania. The figures to which we refer are those which tell the vote he and other candidates received as delegates-at-large to the Republican National Convention. They are as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Hastings | 182 |
| Quay | 180 |
| Leeds | 179 |
| Oliver | 115 |
| Reed | 97 |
| Grow | 53 |

Gen. Hastings received every vote in the convention—all except those of a few absentees, which would probably have been his, anyway.

In this connection the Philadelphia Press voices the exact truth when it says: "Hastings was the one candidate for delegate at-large whose candidacy carried itself through." He was acceptable to all parties and no objection to him came from any quarter.

People interested in figures may profitably examine the vote he received for the position of delegate-at-large to the Chicago convention.

THE reports of the election of delegates in Indiana to the Democratic National Convention make it clear that Cleveland will have the support of a solid delegation. There could be no more convincing proof than this of the change that has come over the administration on the subject of the civil service. In the first year of his official life at Washington the President was generally denounced by the Indiana Democrats. That State was a hot-bed of Democratic spoilsmen. But since the policy of the administration on this subject has been changed and the offices have been freely distributed to the "workers" in that State the Indiana democrats have become loyal supporters of the President. In no other State have there been more well-founded complaints of abuses and mismanagement in the Federal service than there have been in Indiana, and it would be strange if the Hoosier Democrats were not to support a President who has allowed them to do virtually what they please.

THE investigation of a recent wreck on the Burlington road showed that the conductor of the freight train had not had any sleep for fifty hours, that he had objected to going out without rest, but was forced to go. Is it not criminal on the part of any railroad management to compel men to work such long hours without sleep? We think it is.

IT was predicted by some of the best informed politicians that there would be no opposition to the re-election of Chairman Cooper, when he was nominated in the convention. It looked very much that way, it must be admitted, since about two-thirds of the delegates are reported to have been for him.

JUDGE MITCHELL.

James Tyndal Mitchell, who received the Republican nomination for Supreme Judge last week, was born in Philadelphia on November 9, 1834, and is in his 54th year. After graduating from the Central High School, he entered Harvard University, from which institution he graduated in the class of 1855 with high rank, having for classmates such men as General Barlow, the present Attorney General of New York, General Joseph Hayes, Rev. Philips Brooks, Kev. James K. Hosmer, Professor Alexander Agassiz, and others, who have already achieved distinction in various pursuits. He then entered the office of George W. Biddle, Esq., and studied law under his supervision, and was admitted to the bar of Philadelphia in November, 1857; he graduated the next year at the Law Department of the University of Pennsylvania. He was Assistant City Solicitor under Charles E. Lex, from 1859 to 1862, and was the managing editor of the American Law Reporter from 1851 to 1871. He also edited Williams on Real Estate, and assisted in the editing of other legal works. In October, 1871, he was elected Judge of the District Court, and on the adoption of the new Constitution he was made Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, No. 2; previous to his elevation to the bench he was engaged for some time on an entirely new and exhaustive digest of the reports of our State. In 1881 he was renominated, and, being endorsed by the Democrats, was re-elected by a unanimous vote. In the Republican State Convention last year, his name was presented by the Philadelphia delegation for the Supreme Justiceship, and he received the vote of every Philadelphia delegate. Judge Henry W. Williams, of Tioga, however, was made the candidate, the vote standing 148 for Williame to 56 for Mitchell, and 6 for D B. Creen, of Schuylkill. Early in the present year a movement was started for placing his name on the ticket, and his nomination will meet with a hearty reception all over the State.

Cheap Blankets.

The President said that the revenue made the consumer equal to the original cost added to the import duty. So it would but for the fact that the same material is manufactured in this county. Mr. Burrows, of Michigan, a member of the Ways and Mean Committee, in his recent speech on the Mills bill, made a complete answer to the theory advanced by the President, and which guided a majority of the committee in framing the clause putting wool on the free list. "A pair of five-pound blankets," said Mr. Burrows, "were recently imported at the lowest possible cost. The cost in England at wholesale was $4 45; duty, $4 25; customs fees, 65 cents, making a total of $9,35. If the theory is true, these blankets ought to sell for $9 35 a pair; but, as a matter of fact, American blankets of precisely the same weight and quality were selling at that time for $5 20."

In the light of such plain facts as these, what becomes of the theory that "the duty is added to the cost?" Mr. Burrows gave equally forcible illustrations from other departments of manufacturing showing that the President's theory is utterly fallacious and misleading. But, says some mouthing free-traders, if the duty does not increase the price, there is no sense in keeping it on when the Goverment does not need the money. Every intelligent mechanic and laborer has a ready answer to this suggestion. It is by reason of the tariff that American manufacturers have been able to turn out the hundreds of millions of domestic goods which are now sold so cheaply and bought so liberally by all classes of Americans. At the same time the wool-growers of the country have built up an immense industry, and all the trades and all conditions have been largely benefited.

WOMAN suffrage is not making much headway in Massachusetts. The vote against the bill to extend municipal suffrage to women must be disappointing to the advocates of the measure. Even Boston did not make the showing that was expected in the Legislature, and yet it is in that city that interest centers. Eight or ten years ago, when this question was agitated vigorously, it looked as though possibly Boston might set the example for the State. Possibly the recent overwhelming vote against the advocates of woman suffrage, 107 nays to 36 yeas in the House, was the result of mismanagement rather than owing to the sentiment.

FARMERS AND THE MILLS BILL

In 1860 there were 2,000,000 farms in the United States. To-day there are 5,000,000 in this country. Many of them are ten times as large as any farm in existence in 1860. For the past 25 years the additions to the ranks of the agricultural population have been entirely disproportionate to the country's increase in population.

This is why agriculture is in a majority of instances a losing business in the United States. There are too many people engaged in it. And the effects of their excessive competition are aggravated by the use of labor-saving machinery.

These facts are food for thought for American farmers. If the Mills bill becomes a law it will throw at least one million men out of industrial employment. Scores of thousands of these men will go to farming. And yet the very reasons that force them into agricultural pursuits will decrease the market for farm products.

The free-traders are appealing to the farmers. If the farmers possess common sense their ears will be deaf to such cries.

"WHAT'S in a name" is the one agitating question of all time, apparently. Numerous are the complaints from Americans in foreign lands of the serious defects in our diplomatic and consular service. That there are defects is an accepted fact, and being such there should be remedies. Not the least strenuously advocated of these remedies is one we find suggested in the Chicago Tribune of a recent date, which is no more nor less than the styling of our representatives in foreign parts ambassadors. We are in favor of the change if it will produce the desired result, but the best plan, perhaps, would be to inject more backbone into our foreign service. Backbone is better than a title any day, but there is a superstition among Americans who frequent foreign countries that there should be added to backbone higher salaries if our diplomats are to compete with those of other nations.

IN Catham county, North Carolina, near a place known as Egypt, are vast coal deposits and also immense beds of iron ore. These have been partially developed, and just before war the United States Government was perfecting arrangements to purchase them and establish there a great arsenal. Just after the war some shrewd men from Pennsylvania went there and quietly obtained options on several large tracts of land. It is now known that they believe that petroleum exists there. These men made a superficial examination and went away. It was argued a few years ago that petroleum must, in the nature of things, be found in that region. News has now come of its discovery on the plantation of a man named W. D. Harrington, on Deep River.

SECRETARY BAYARD is represented by Washington correspondents as greatly disliking diplomacy and he sighs for his old seat in the Senate. As premier of the Cleveland administration he has not been very successful. Some of his blunders have excited derision of our government abroad among foreign nations. He has been very unfortunate in the class of men he has selected for ministers and consuls. He is not fitted for the place he fills and knows it. But pride keeps him from resigning.

AT Shady Side, Allegheny county, the other day, a lady accompaned a friend to the station to see her away in the train. She had with her a small dog. She turned to the animal and said: "Stay right there." The dog sat right down on the rail and there remained in stubborn obedience until a passing train ran over and crushed the life out of it. There was both obedience and sacrifice in its fate.

JOHN M. COOPER, the veteran Democratic editor of the Review and Examiner of Washington, Pa., has thus far refused to join his party in waging war upon the industries of the country. From the opening of the current tariff discussion down to the present time his paper has sturdily maintained an opposition to free wool and other injurious features of the Mills bill.

Poetry.

HER THOUGHTS.

"Sweet maid, what anxious thoughts to-night
Keep you lingering here on the stair?
Are you thinking of eyes that with love's deep light,
Pleaded with yours a share?"

Ah, no! A far more important thing
Troubled the throbbing brain,
As up the winding stair she swept,
Daintily holding her train.

She was wondering if, at the coming ball,
With a little artistic taste,
She could make that look like another dress
By wearing a different waist.

Our Story Teller

ONE WAY OF LOVE.

She was a clerk in the Treasury at Washington, on a salary of nine hundred dollars a year, he was in the post-office enjoying the privileges afforded by an income of twelve hundred. Once in a while there was a holiday, when they would take a boat down to Mount Vernon, if it was warm, and spread their luncheon in the shade of its historic trees, and patronize nature as successfully as if they were nabobs. Sometimes they had tickets given them for a comedy or tragedy, when they laughed or cried with the discernment of millionaires and the old families. On Sunday mornings they sang in a choir, and walked out to Long Bridge later in the day, or strolled in the Capitol grounds, and surprised the first violet in its hiding-place. Helen's landlady told every new boarder that Mr. Van Vleck "was going with" Miss Hildreth, but Miss Helen protested that he was merely a friend; that they were neighbors at home, and had gone to school together when they were in their pinafores; and the landlady always sniffed when she remarked: "If he's nothing but a friend, I should think there'd be a cessation of his love-making sooner or later."

One day when they were rambling about Mt. Vernon together Helen fell into a romancing vein. "Suppose this is my country seat," said she, "and I have finished it in the Queen Ann style, and I'm entertaining the creme de la creme, just as they do in novels."—

"A sort of Lady Geraldine—and I am the poor poet, eh?"

"All but the poetry," mocked Helen.

"Now suppose this is my manor house," suggested Theodore, "furnished in the renaissance, let us say—I'm making great demands on your imagination—and I'm entertaining all the swells. I've lured you here on the pretext of looking for a four-leafed clover, but really to ask if you will share my magnificence with me; what should you say?"

"I should put my lessons in gymnastics into use and jump at the chance."

"And if I should ask instead:

"Come share my cottage, gentle maid?"

"Don't," cried Helen.

He looked at her a little blankly.

"You don't mean that you care so little for me?"

"I don't mean anything.—Don't let us talk about marrying and giving in marriage; we are happy enough as we are."

"But if I don't marry you some other fellow will."

"Nonsense; penniless girls are a drug in the market. I've seen misery enough from marrying on a small salary; I've seen people living in two rooms, on water and a crust," so to speak, doing their own work, with no pleasures and no society, and no hope of amendment; people who thought love would tide them over all the quicksands—and presently the hallucination wore off, but the quicksands remained; reproaches set in; she grew bitter and unlovely, and he morose and neglectful."—

"Then you think love an hallucination?"

"I think marriage is a mistake on twelve hundred a year. If I became dowdy, and hadn't time to cultivate a taste for æsthetics, or whatever was the fashionable craze, and grew jaded and spiritless with the uncongenial task of washing pots and kettles, and stewing over a range, and if nobody turned to look after me as I passed one day you would find yourself disenchanted. Then, supposing the new administration should push you out of office, even for a month, or you should fall ill? No, we are happy just as we are; don't let us discuss marriage; let us wait, like Mr. Micawber, till something turns up."

And so Van Vleck waited. Perhaps he was disappointed in Helen's views, but he refused to confess it even to himself: all women felt so, he supposed, cared more for shadow than substance, or mistook the one for the other; it was their poetic temperament which made poverty hateful to them and splendor their natural atmosphere, and he applied himself more diligently than ever to his idea, working far into night at times.

"You were not at the President's last evening," one of his fellow-clerks said to him later.

"I? No; I should think not."

"But Miss Hildrith was there; she and Mr. Sterling, M. C., were hand in glove. I heard him ask her to go and hear 'Lohengrin' to-morrow night."

"Mr. Sterling is in luck," was all Van Vleck ventured to say, he did not choose to carry his heart on his sleeve for every clerk to peck it. If Mr. Sterling was facinated by Helen, it surely was no fault of hers; many a man had been bewitched by her before this elderly congressman, only Theodore forgot that they had all been needy suitors—and as for Helen, he felt as sure of her as of seedtime and harvest.

But on one occasion he left his work early and hastened to see her; a cloud of ugly rumors had assailed him and interfered with his tasks; she should brush all the cobwebs out of his heaven. He met her coming down the staircase in a white evening dress, with flowers in her hand—costly exotics, such as wealthy lovers send their sweethearts, such as he never dared to buy.

"Where did they come from?" he demanded.

"They grew, I 'spects—like Topsy," answered Helen, laughing uneasily.

"Where did you get them, Helen?"

"You are inquisitive, Mr. Van Vleck. They were sent me."

"By Mr. Sterling."

"You do credit to our nationality. You're a capital Yankee. Yes, by Mr. Sterling, of course?"

"Helen," he cried, beneath his breath—"Helen, are you going to marry Mr. Sterling?"

"I—I believe I am," she said, dropping her eyes.

Theodore never knew exactly how he found his way out of the house; he was vaguely aware of brushing against a stout gentleman, a fur-trimmed ulster, as he shot into the street, of a stately carriage and pair standing at the door, and a dark-browed lady leaning out to look after him.

The next day he resigned his position in the post office, drew his savings from the bank and left Washington. It were well, perhaps; if he could put deserts and seas and mountain ranges between Helen and himself. It seemed to him as if the earth had reeled from its orbit, and it required time for him to readjust himself to the situation. His idea was all that was left to him; he put into it all his earnings, he devoted heart and soul to its development, and he finally forgot himself and Helen Hildreth in his work and its success.

It was seven or eight years later that they met, oddly enough, on the Mount Vernon boat. Her vivacity was no longer the spontaneous effervescence of youth and hope; she was a trifle passee, perhaps.

"Wealth and splendor have not proved all her fancy painted them," he thought as her eyes met. "Mr. Van Vleck," she cried, "who would have dreamed of meeting you here!" Was the pleasure which brightened her eyes and deepened her somewhat exaggerated dimples a reminiscence of her power, or was Mrs. Sterling a married flirt, he wondered. "We have heard of you often, to be sure," she purred. "The newspapers have not been silent concerning you and your great invention. I've always felt an ownership in that invention, do you know? I felt as if I were behind the scenes, let into the secret before the rest of the outside world, when it was only a dream. I've resented every infringement—"

"I am flattered that you remember my small affairs," said Theodore, humbly.

"Remember," she repeated with a lingering accent. "I have nothing else to do."

"I come down here sometimes," she pursued after a brief pause, "when we have a holiday, for the sake of auld lang syne, and try to believe that I am seven years younger, and that the world is before me where to choose. I like to come when the peach trees are in bloom, as they were that day when we built our castles in the air. Mine have all crumbled into dust."

"Mrs. Sterling, I am sorry to hear you speak so."

She started at him an instant, blushed and dropped her eyes in the effective way. "Haven't you heard," she said, "I didn't marry Mr. Sterling?"

Perhaps she expected Theodore to beam with sudden happiness and rehearse the old story she had refused to hear once before.

"You left no address, you know," defending herself from the approaches she anticipated. "Mr. Sterling died before the wedding day was set, I thought you would see it in the newspapers. I am a Treasury girl yet, Theodore. Do you know that I sometimes wish that I had never saw Mr. Sterling?"

Only the fates know what Van Vleck would have answered, but just at that moment a bit of crepe lisse floated into their neighborhood and a voice like a summer brook cried, "Oh, my veil, Theodore!" Theodore put out a hand but it it eluded him. Helen made a quick movement and caught it on the wing.

"Let me introduce you to Mrs. Van Vleck, Miss Hildreth," he said. "She would like to thank you."

Little Chicago's Queer Family.

George Clark, who was several days ago found guilty at Waynesburg, Pa., of murder in the first degree in having killed William McCausland, is a member of a remarkable family. The hamlet known as Little Chicago, way down in the corner of Pennsylvania, near the corner of Pennsylvania, near the Maryland line, is populated entirely by Clarks. Altogether they muster forty voters. Frank Clark, Sr., is the patriarch of the tribe. He is a law unto himself. His descendants and relatives have intermarried to such an extent that the usual terms of relationship have long been exhausted, and it would puzzle the most ingenious to find out what one man's relation is to another. The Clarks are nothing if not clanish. The several branches of the family are always in harmony. They vote together every time, and are therefore, "seen" early by the wily candidates for political honors. Their township usually goes as old Frank orders it. When the Clarks, or any one of them get into trouble, they swear together, and their skillfully arranged stories and preponderance of numbers generally carry weight before the country 'squire or country court. The Clark men are giants in size. Nearly every one of them is six feet tall or over. This peculiarity was strikingly noticeable during George Clark's trial, when the voters of Little Chicago swarmed into the Waynesburg Court House and did the tallest kind of swearing to prove an alibi for the accused. It looked more like a convention of giants than like a murder trial. Temperance people sagely ascribe this unusual physical development to the total absence of saloons or licensed bars in Green county.

Since last Saturday old Frank Clark's head has been bowed in sorrow, and the other two hundred members of the settlement are filled with alarm. George Clark is the first of five of their number to be convicted of murder. He is likely to hang. Jim Neff, Zach Taylor, Frank Clark, S., and his son Frank are yet to be tried. Their crime was a brutal one. One morning in September last William McCausland, a rich Allegheny City drover, who had come down the Greene county to buy cattle, was walking along one of the "Clark paths," which mark the banks of the muddy Monongahela, when he was shot and robbed. For over three months the tragedy was enveloped in mystery. The Clarks were unmolested. Just before Christmas they were surprised one day by the arrest of half a dozen of their number for McCausland's murder. The conviction of George Clark has been accomplished after a trial remarkable for the determined efforts made by Clark's family to prove an alibi. A score of them swore that he was not on the Greene county side of the river on the fateful morning, but the State showed conclusively that he and Zach Taylor were, and the circumstantial evidence was so strong against Clark that the jury found him guilty.

She Fought a Mad Dog Alone.

A dispatch from Nashville, Tenn., says:—Miss Mollie Green is a heroine in Perry County, Tenn., to-night. Miss Mollie, who is eighteen years old, teaches school on Cypress Creek, in Perry County, though her father, Robert Green, lives across the Tennessee River, in Hickman County. The little log school-house was quiet and the little children busy with their lessons today when a shaggy dog, foaming at the mouth, snapping and biting, dashed in at the door and sprang towards one of the children. The brave teacher thought only of the children in her care and sprang between them and the intruder. She told them it was a mad dog and kicked at it, her skirts protecting her. By the aid of a heavy ruler she kept it at bay until all the children had fled.

The infuriated animal repeatedly sprang at her throat but she was too agile to be caught and resolutely held her ground. When all the little ones were gone she desperately fought off the dog until she reached the door, which she pulled to after her and fell fainting outside. The children had in the mean time ran to the nearest houses, an eighth of a mile distant, and given the alarm. Two men came up, and after reviving the teacher with water killed the dog. The dog had been in the neighborhood for two days. The grateful parents of the children took up a subscription and will give the young lady a fine saddle-horse. Her clothes were literally torn off during her struggle with the dog.

"This," said an Alleghenian, as they were walking in the new conservatory on Sunday, "is the date tree. Its fruit is used by the almanac men."

"Oh, you can't palm that off on me," was the reply.

First Burglar—Hello, Bill; get any swag?

Second Burglar—This bag full.

"Whew! What did you strike?"

"Anti-Poverty bureau, I guess; leastways there was lots in the drawers."

"Does hanging prevent murder?" asks an exchange. We believe it usually does, as far as the hangee is concerned.

Jots for Fair Women.

Coarse straw bonnets, draped with colored lisse, are a new fancy.

Brooches of translucent enamel in the form of mythological head are in vogue.

The trimmings are cord passementeries, in the two colors of the stripes of the skirts.

Many new shades appear in street gloves, intended to match the costumes with which they are to be worn.

Very elegant brocaded moires are woven upon a ground of glace moire, and show brilliant changeable tints.

What are known as "laburnam hats" are of black lisse, with yellow laburnams dropping the high crowns.

Real wheat is used to a considerable extent on the new bonnets, for making the bonnet itself as well as for the trimmings.

Wraps of the dress material are frequently made up this season, and in the majority of cases they are heavily braided.

Five small ribbon rosettes, ecru, reseda, leaf green, brown and pink, were used as trimmings upon a single bonnet.

An old piece of jewelry is a brooch in the form of a gold mule, studded with diamonds, and having a harness of oxidized silver.

Epigrams by a Popular Preacher.

The Rev. Dr. C. H. Parkhurst, of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, New York, is, perhaps, the most popular preacher in that city. His church is always packed. He owes his popularity very greatly to his pithy sayings, which flow from his pen as easily as from his tongue. In an article in the Forum, on "What the Public Schools should Teach," occur the following epigrammatic sayings:

People have to pay for being stupid.

Money cannot make brains, but brains can make money.

Whether in a mill-pond or in the swim of life, it is a man's head that must be kept above water if his whole body will be saved from drowning.

Industrial ignorance is the mother of idleness, the grandmother of destitution and the great grand-mother of socialism and philistic discontent.

A good deal of what we are pleased to call our goodness is only another name for metnods of behaving that we have had drilled into us till they have become habits.

We want to avail ourselves of the pressure of theistic motives, not for the sake of keeping the children out of hell by and by, but for the sake of keeping hell out of the children now.

What Causes Headache.

Overstudy.

Overwork indoors.

Neglect of the bath.

Want of fresh air in bed-rooms.

Nervousness, however induced:

Want of abundant skin-exciting exercise

Neglect of the ordinary rules that conduce to health.

Over-indulgence in food, especially of a stimulating character.

Weakness or debility of body, however produced. This can only be remedied by proper nutriment.

Work or study indoors, carried on in an unnatural or cramped position of body. Literary men and women ought to do most of their work at a standing desk, lying down now and then to ease brain and heart and permit ideas to flow. They should work out of doors in fine weather—with their feet resting on a board, not on the earth—and under canvass in wet weather. It is surprising the good this simple advice, if followed, can effect.

Maude Howe, who is now Mrs. Elliott, is living in Chicago.

Miss Van Zandt is going to sing in this country in 1889-90.

Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake says that tea "gets on her nerves."

Empress Victoria of Germany is literally surrounded by detectives.

Mrs. Cleveland's friend, Miss Kate Willard, is an accomplished pianist.

Mrs. Johnston, President Buchanan's niece, is at present living in Italy.

The Dowager Empress of Germany sometimes wears blue goggles.

Mme. Modjeska recently gave a reception to the Woman's Press Association.

Mrs. Hopkins-Searle, at Barrington, Mass., owns the largest organ in America.

Mme. Christine Nilsson says that nothing will induce her to return to the stage.

The new Duchess of Rutland is a frequent contributor to several English magazines.

Ploughing in California.—Southern California Agent: "There, sir, look over into that field. Did you ever see a man plough so easily as that?" Eastern Farmer: "By gum? The plough does seem to go easy, don't it? The man seems to enjoy it." "Yes, sir; keeps jumping and dancing along like a boy; just see his heels fly." "Looks a good deal like a jig. I must say." Little boy (native): "Pop ain't dancin'; he's tryin' ter keep outen the way o' the tarantulas an' rattlesnakes wot he turns up."

Brother, Sister and Mother Re-united

About thirteen years ago a woman by the name of Bidwell, who came from Foxburg, appeared at Williams Householder's hotel at White Rock with a little girl named Etta, aged 10 years. She said that she had separated from her husband, taking the boy and girl, and asked Mr. Householder to take the little girl and raise her. As Householder had no girls he took the child and raised her up as his own until she grew up a handsome young lady. A short time ago a young man called at Mr. Householder's, who now lives at Apollo, inquired for Miss Bidwell, and revealed himself to her as her brother. He told her how, when the family separated, he then being thirteen years old, he went West with other boys, reached the gold mines, staked a claim and "struck it rich." Now he returned to seek out his long-lost relatives. He loaded his sister with costly presents, gave her several hundred dollars, and started East with her in search of their mother. On going to Foxburg they learned that she was living near Bradford, and there a happy re-union took place. The son loaded his mother with presents, and, after a happy visit, took his sister back to Householder's and returned West.

Taking a fresh start.—"Clara," said the old man from the head of the stairs, "hasn't that young man gone yet?" "Your daughter isn't here, sir," feebly responded the young man. "She has just stepped into the kitchen to fill and trim the lamp."

Roses and Pansies.—Young Lady (to florist): "I am very particular that only the freshest roses are used. Will you see to it personally, please?" Florist: "Yes, Miss. To what address shall I send the bouquet?" Young Lady: "Just 'Billy,' Murderers' Row, Tombs.'"

"I can never be more than a sister to to you," said a buxom widow, tenderly, to an old bachelor who had proposed. "Ah, madam, yes you can," he responded, gallantly, "I am not a man to lose hope." "Yes, but I say I cannot," she persisted. "You have daughters, madam," he said. "and you may yet be my mother-in-law."

Gentleman: "You are a shiftless niggar, Rastus, and no good to yourself or the community. This is the third time you have asked me to go bail for you." Rastus: "I knows it, mistah Smif, I knows it, an' ef you'll 'commodate me jes' ounce mo' I'll skip out de fust thin' in nawin' an' nebber show up agin, 'deed I won't.

"That ton of coal looks to me about 200 pounds short," said a family man, and I'll have it weighed. The way some of these coal-dealers cheat is wicked." After he had it weighed he said to his wife: "It's all right, weighs about a hundred pounds over." "How much will you have to pay for the extra weight, John?" "Nothing. That's their mistake, not mine."

A Musical Treat.—Hostess to young Mr. Sissy: "You will kindly favor us with some music, will you not, Mr. Sissy?"

Young Mr. Sissy: "Well—aw, I'm not quite my usual self to-night, Mrs. Hobson; but I will—aw, sing a little, if you like."

Hostess (graciously): "Oh, thanks, you are very kind. Even a little of your singing, Mr. Sissy, goes a great ways, you know."

Forming a New Trust.—(Time—leap-year. Scene—a tete-a-tete.)

Lady Angela: "What, can you tell me, are these 'trusts' one reads so much about lately?"

Adolphus: "A 'trust' is a combination for mutual advantage, so to speak."

Angela (confusedly): "Adolphus—er—that is—Mr.—"

Adolphus: "Yes."

Angela: "Why may we not form a 'trust?'"

(They combine. Tableau.)

It is said that the turtle is almost insensible to electricity. The turtle appears to be a good deal like the telephone girl.

It would no doubt shock many an actress who considers herself a "star" did she ever by accident happen to read that word backward.

Old lady (to railroad brakeman)—How soon does this train start for Shacknack? Brakeman—Not for two hours yet, madam. Step lively, please.

A Dreadful Threat.—An Austin colored man, with protruding eyes, rushed into Justice Tegener's office and exclaimed:

"I wants Col. Jones, who libs nex' door to me, put under a million dollars bonds ter keep de peace."

"Has he threatened your life?"

"He has done dat berry ding. He said he war g'wine ter fill de nex' niggah he found after dark, in his ben-house, plum full b buckshots.

Very Considerate.—"Well, John," said old man Jordan to his young friend "you have just married, I hear."

"Yes, sir," he answered, with a spring morning smile, "just a month ago, and I want you to go up to dinner with me to day."

"Have you got a cook?"

"No."

"Well, my boy, s'pose we go to a restaurant this time. You must remember I had a young wife once myself."

An evasive answer.—An Austrian attorney, who had many times sent away an impecunious client with equivocal answer regarding his case, was one day disturbed under a press of business by the aforesaid client walking into his office.

"You here again?" said the lawyer impatiently.

"Yes," answered the client. "You told me to come back some other time."

"Well, then," retorted the attorney, "I didn't mean this time; I mean some other some other time."

"John," she said, as she toyed with one of his coat buttons, "this is leap year, isn't it?"

"Yes, Mamie," he answered, as he looked fondly down on the golden head that was pillowed on his manly bosom.

"This is the year when the proposing is done by the young ladies?"

"Yes."

"I hope you don't expect me to propose to you?"

"Why, Mamie, dear, I never gave the matter a thought—I—er—to tell the truth, I've only known you for—that is to say—"

"I'm glad you didn't expect me to propose. No, John, dearest, I couldn't be so immodest. I am going to let you do the proposing yourself in the old-fashioned way. The old-fashioned way is good enough for me."

And the gentle maiden gave her lover a beaming smile and the youth rejoiced that he had found such a treasure of his heart.

A Descendant of Confucius.

"For the first time in the world's history," says the St. James Gazette, "a Mr. Confucius has within the last few days arrived on our shores. Just 2,418 years ago the wife of "the ancient teacher, the illustrious and accomplished, the all-complete and perfect sage," presented him with a son and heir. In recognition of this auspicious event the reigning duke sent the sage a present of a brace of carp, and to mark his sense of the favor thus shown him he named the infant Li—i. e., 'carp.' The gentleman who has now arrive in London is of the 71st generation in direct male descent from Mr. 'Carp' Confucius, and it will interest Mr. Francis Galton to know that he furnishes an illustrious instance af hereditary genius. He is a member of the Hanlin College, admission to which is granted only to a small proportion of those scholars who pass the highest competitive examination in the empire.

About Trespassing.

There are many persons who imagine that they can cross a field or enter an orchard, fish in a stream which is the property of another, and do many things of this character which cannot be resisted by the owner of the land; that there is a popular idea that mere walking over a field is not a trespass. It possibly may not damage such property, but it is a misdemeanor to do it, which is punishable by law. The season is coming when the people will be sauntering into the country, seeking the suburbs for a walk. To such as will do so, as well as to all others, it will be safe for them to understand the law of trespass. Persons guilty of trespass are liable to a fine of not less than five nor more than fifty dollars. If a party convicted is too poor to pay the fine, he can be imprisoned one day for each dollar of the imposed penalty.

The actors and actresses who play in the modern "tank" drama may be regarded as belonging to a watered stock company.

"This thing is getting contagious," said a boy who had several times been told to go to bed. "What do you mean?" asked his father. "I mean that I shall catch it if I don't move on."

ABSENCE OF MIND.

"Now be sure not to forget," said a lady, playfully shaking her finger at her escort as he arose to stretch his legs between acts, and turning to a lady friend explained, "He is so absent-minded."

"Does he forget your letters and errands?"

"Oh, no, indeed! He is so absent-minded I never intrust any to him. But he forgets me. Why, only last week, he went out between acts and never returned. I wen home alone and found him peacefully smoking his cigar before the open fire, quite oblivious to myself and the theater. I was very indignant, but when I began with tears in my eyes, "How could you go off and leave me so?" the whole occurrence seemed to flash upon him. He sprang to his feet declaring that he had been worrying all the evening about something that he had forgotten, and so overwhelmed me with loving protestations that I couldn't talk to him very seriously."

"How sad! I wonder if all men are so afflicted. My husband is. Why, I remember one day he arose from the dinner table, and feeling a slight uneasiness in his eyes, began operations upon them with his toothpick, nearly destroying his sight."

"How unfortunate."

"Yes, and one night I asked him to replenish the fuel in the grate, and in a fit of abstraction he brought in a hod of water and poured it onto the fire, scalding himself and bringing ruin to everything."

"O-o-h, how perfectly awful! But I hadn't begun to tell you the worst about my husband. Why, it was only a week after our marriage, while walking down Woodward avenue arm in arm, he so far forgot himself as to imagine he had an extremely burdensome bundle under his arm, and offered a newsboy a quarter to carry it for him."

"'But war's yer bundle, mister," the little fellow inquired. And, will you believe it, my Benedict deliberately handed me over to the small boy, and I was so mortified—"

Her voice was drowned by the orchestra.—Detroit Free Press.

How They "Move" In Russia.

They have a funny way of moving goods in Russia. I remember one day seeing a procession of men going through the streets with the household effects of a well known family. Four of them had the piano on their shoulders, while a range was carried by two others. Then followed men in single file with tables, mirrors, trunks, wash boilers, tubs, bed clothing and other goods on their heads. Wagons are seldom employed in hauling articles from one part of the city to another. A Russian transfer or freight man carries around under his arm a head pad about size of the crown of a large cup. It is usually made of leather and stuffed with hair or hay. It is soft and generally four inches thick. On a plate attached to his coat lapel is a word of Russian announcing that he is an expressman. He has no cart, horse or help.

This man, single handed and alone, contracts to remove every character of goods as rapidly and safely as is they were in charge of the great express companies of the large American cities. He associates with him, if there is heavy furniture or haste in the work, a number of his confreres, and the men, sometimes to the aggregate of a score, simply walk into the house, pick up the goods and carry them out and to their destination in a twinkle. There is no groaning, packing, raising and adjusting about drays of wagons. When the men get their loads on their heads they start out in Indian file and make a little procession through the city. They never go down an unfrequented street, as they would lose an opportunity of advertising their trade. A Russian thinks no more of picking up a warm cooking stove, placing it on his head and walking a couple of miles with it without rest than an American would of carrying an overcoat.—Philadelphia Times.

Free Trade vs. Protection.—"Father," said a young Austin swell with sporting proclivities, "explain to me something about protection. What is the duty on sugar?"

"I don't know anything about the duty on sugar, but I can tell you something about the duty on tobacco. It is my duty to seize all the cigars I can get hold of," and reaching over toward his son's vest pocket, he snatched a handful of Havanas.

"So that's the duty on tobacco, is it?" said the young man. "Well, I may be somewhat muddled on political economy, but that looks a good deal like free trade."

CHURCH COUNCILS.

Opening of the Methodist General Conference.

ROUTINE BUSINESS ONLY.

An Unusual Sight in New York's Metropolitan Opera House—Great Array of Church Dignitaries.

The Proceedings.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The great Methodist Episcopal conference began at the Metropolitan opera house. By 9 o'clock the lower part of the house was packed with prominent clergymen, while the galleries were filled with ladies.

Senior Bishop Bowman, of St. Louis, announced the opening of the conference by stating that the Rev. Mr. Foster would read psalm 103, written and presented to the American Methodist Episcopal church by Dr. Walker, of England.

The first hymn of the Methodist Episcopal church was next read by Bishop Cyrus W. Foss, of Minneapolis, and was sung while all stood up. It began "Oh for a Thousand Tongues."

Dr. W. H. Olin, of Wyoming, next offered prayer.

Bishop J. M. Waldon, of Chattanooga, next read the third chapter of Ephesians.

In the absence of Bishop Taylor, Bishop Andrews, of Washington, D. C., read the 241st hymn. There were no musical accompaniments.

Bishop H. W. Warren, of Denver, next led in prayer.

Of the eleven bishops of the M. E. church ten were present on the stage, Bishop Taylor, the African missionary, alone being absent. He is in town and will be in regular attendance.

Presiding Bishop Bowman then arose and explained the reason for the conference, the rules that would govern its deliberations, etc.

The bishops decided that delegates not showing proper credentials should not be called at the preliminary roll call.

Secretary D. S. Monroe, D. D., of the previous conference, then read the roll call.

After the roll was called Dr. Olin proposed the name of Dr. D. S. Monroe, of southern Pennsylvania, for permanent secretary. Before this could be acted upon Dr. Lanahan, of Baltimore, moved that the conference conduct the business to come before it under the previous rules governing other conferences.

Dr. Buckley offered an amendment to Dr. Lanahan's motion allowing a delegate to talk for twenty minutes instead of ten. Adopted.

Dr. Hamilton, of the New England conference, arose and moved that two committees be appointed to inquire into the eligibility of two classes of delegates present. The first was composed of women whose eligibility was disputed. The second was composed of those who live outside of the conference district they claim to represent. Dr. Hamilton also asked that the committee be instructed to report Wednesday morning.

THE WORK OF RUM.

A Husband Beats His Wife with a Hammer and Commits Suicide.

CHICAGO, May 2.—William Willner, a machinist of No. 387 North Paulina street, who for some time has been out of work and drinking heavily, on the refusal of his wife to furnish him more money to use in buying liquor, crept up to her bedside where she was sleeping at the side of her niece, Emma Zinco, and dealt her a blow on the head with a hammer. Her screams attracted the neighbors. Before help arrived he threw her to the floor and inflicted several more blows. He then ran into a back room and slashed himself across the abdomen with a razor and fell to the floor. When the officers of West Chicago Avenue station arrived both husband and wife were apparently near death. They were removed to the County hospital. It is believed that the injuries to both will be fatal.

Railroad Men Killed.

—Too high pressure of natural gas came near resulting in a number of fires at Johnstown Monday morning. A fortunate discovery by F. W. Clark in his Main street dining room at midnight, led to an investigation, and in many homes the stoves were found to be redhot and the floors ablaze. Ross & Son's planing mill, on Livestod street came near destruction, the engine room being like a furnace and the steam pressure sufficient to burst the boilers. The natural gas people say it was an unavoidable accident. Had not the discovery been made in time, Johnstown would have been in ashes to-day. In at least 27 dwelling houses the stoves were redhot, and the floors were smoking.

Shot at a Wedding Celebration.

Special to the Altoona Tribune.

PHILIPSBURG, April 30.—On Saturday evening, April 28, while some Hungarians, employed at the Lancanshire coal bank, were celebrating the marriage of two of their people and having a big time, John Hughes, an American, appeared among them, raised a disturbance and shot three Hungarians. None of the men were dangerously injured. Hughes was immediately arrested, given a hearing before 'Squire McKiernan and taken to the Clearfield jail to await trial at court.

—The improvement in the condition of Mr. David Brickley, of Curtin township, continues. He is the man who, a few days ago, ejected a lizard from his stomach which has been growing there since last November. During that time he suffered extremely and became very much reduced in flesh. Indeed, so feeble was he that he almost resembled a corpse. Though it is only a week since Mr. Brickley got rid of his disagreeable encumbrance he is greatly improved and looks like a new man. The change in his appearance is wonderful. We hope his complete recovery will follow.

How Free Trade Works in England.

The following it taken from the columns of Fair Trade, for January 6, 1888, the organ of the National Fair Trade League, printed at No. 23 Cockspur street, London.

There is no district round London more adversely affected by foreign imports than Greenwich and Deptford; the following description of the position there in the Christmas week, 1887, surely vies with anything that is recorded of sufferings under the old regime.

Before Christmas the Greenwich workhouse was full, and now there are no fewer than 1,400 persons within its walls, being over 300 more than there is really room for. The frosty weather of the past week has thrown an addition number of artisans out of employment, and in several streets in Deptford there is scarcely a single house where every available article of furniture and wearing apparel has not gone to the pawnshop. In many cases where the families are seven or eight in number the children's clothes have been stripped off their backs for food, and two persons have actually died from starvation, one man being found sitting on a doorstep in a dying condition, and when removed to the workhouse he expired. An inspection of some of the poorer parts of Deptford and Greenwich has just been made, and large numbers of families were found in an utterly destitute and starving condition. An attempt has been made to get them into the workhouse, but the general response was that they would rather die than go to the Union. In two families it was found that for several days eleven persons had been subsisting upon cabbage leaves and other refuse which had been picked up in the gutter.

Your Destiny.

According to almost all the charts gotten up by the astrologists, what may be expected of girls born in different months is about as follows:

If in January, a prudent housewife, given to melancholy, but good tempered.

If in February, a humane and affectionate wife and tender mother.

If in March, a frivolous chatter-box, somewhat given to quarrelling.

If in April, inconstant, not very intelligent, but likely to be good looking.

If in May, handsome, amiable and likely to be happy.

If in June, impetuous, will marry early and be frivolous.

If in July, passably handsome, but with a sulky temper.

If in August, amiable and practical and likely to marry rich.

If in September, discreet, affable and much liked.

If in October, pretty and coquettish and likely to be unhappy.

If in November, liberal, kind and of a wild disposition.

If in December, well proportioned, fond of novelty and extravagant.

THE Wilksbarre Record says: "The Southern people are impressed by political leaders with the idea that a Republican administration means some kind of calamity for them. Hence their devotion to Cleveland. The Southern people fared very well with Hayes and Arthur, and would have prospered under Garfield and Blaine. We believe that a Republican administration, out-and-out, would benefit the South more than the North. The whole country would be the gainer."

THE average increase in the price of farm produce during the last sixty-six years has been from 300 to 400 per cent., while the average decrease of the price of manufactured goods during the same period has been from 20 to 90 per cent. All of which is due to the introduction of diversified industries engaged in manufactures and fostered by a Protective tariff.

A Girl's Suicide.

Special to the Altoona Tribune.

OSCEOLA MILLS, Pa., May 1.—Last evening about 7 o'clock Carrie, the 14-year-old daughter of A. L. Kephart, committed suicide at her home at Coal Run, about two miles from here. She went to her room after supper and had been there but a short time when the report of the revolver, with which she had taken her life was heard by the family. On reaching the room where she lay they found her on the floor with a bullet hole through her head, which caused death almost instantly. The girl left a note on the stand to her parents, bidding them farewell, telling them therein that she was going to die soon. It is supposed that she was temporarily insane, as no other cause can be assigned for the deed. A coroner's jury was impanneled and an inquest held this morning, which resulted in the verdict "that she had taken her life with her own hand."

That Highway of Nations,

The broad Atlantic, is ever a stormy thoroughfare. Yet blow the winds ever so fiercely, and ride the waves ever so loftily, seamen must man the good ships, tourists will brave the passage, and commercial travelers and buyers must visit the centres of foreign trade and manufacture. That atrocious malady, seasickness, together with colicky pains and much inward uneasiness is often endured when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters would have fortified the voyagers against them. Sea captains, and in fact all old salts and veteran travelers are acquainted with the protective value of this estimable preventive and remedy, and are rarely unprovided with it. Emigrants to the far West should use it as a safeguard against malaria. Seek the aid of the Bitters for dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint, kidney troubles, and all ailments that impair the harmonious and vigorous action of the vital powers.

They say Charlie has married. Is she a well-informed woman? Well, I should say so. She has belonged to the sewing circle for ten years, and never missed a meeting.

What Florida People Live On.

"What do you Florida people live on in the summer?" "Fish." "What in the winter?" "Yankees." Alas! how many northerners draw their last breath in Florida, slain by that fell destroyer, consumption, who would have lived, had they used at first that marvelous specific for consumption, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery—better than hypophosphites and cod liver oil, because more nutritive and tonic; also an invaluable liver corrective and blood purifier, cleansing away all scrofluous humors (which cause consumption), and all other impurities of the blood, curing glandular swellings, goiter or thick neck, old sores, and ulcers. Of druggists.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

After a midnight lunch of mince pie, a citizen complained of horrid dreams, in which he was chased by pirates. "Mince pirates, probably," calmly suggested his wife.

Their Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at W. C. Keplinger & Co's Drug Store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.

Some Foolish People

Could they be induced to try the successful medicine called Kemp's Balsam, which we will sell on a positive guarantee to cure, they would immediately see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial size free. At all Druggists'.

A Great Help to Women.

"Man's work is from sun to sun,
Woman's work is never done."

How true. And yet inventive genius and science has made wonderful progress in relieving woman of much of her former drudgery and slavery. The Model Steam Cooker, an illustration of which we give to our readers, is a happy combination of scientific principles, and while improving the food we eat and saving its cost in fuel in a short time, its use does away with the red hot stove, and cooking with it is a positive pleasure. Steam cooked food is healthier and more palatable than when cooked in the ordinary way. It never burns or drys, and with the Model Cooker there is no steam or odor in the house when cooking food. It is self-regulating—blows a whistle when the water gets low, and needs no care to keep the meal from spoiling. The Franklin institute of Philadelphia has made a practical test with Boston Brown Bread and Vegetables, and report that they can be cooked more successfully by steam than in any other way. A further test was made with onions and showed no trace of odor in the room. This is the highest scientific authority in this country. The Model Cooker Co., 34 Park Row, New York, want agents to help them place these wonderful Steam Cookers in every family. Those who apply early will get the best territory. Any lady or gentleman wishing to engage in permanent remunerative employment, cannot do better than by writing to the Model Cooker Co.

Chemist's Idea of Wine.

We have heard a great deal of superior excellence of Spear's N. J. Wine, and of its being adopted in European hospitals in preferance to their own wines. The most scientific men of this country and liquor-assayers appointed by the state government pronounce it a most valuable article for sickness. We cannot write more on this subject now, but publish the following card, which speaks for itself:

PORTLAND, Feb.

The undersigned, having become practically acquainted with the wine produced by Alfred Speer of New Jersey, would say that he considers it a superior article, and far preferable to the quality of Port wine generally furnished in this market. H. T. CUMMINGS, M. D.,

The Best Local Paper in the County

This is not brag.

It is a plain statement of an honest fact.

Ordinarily the weekly issue of a daily paper is esteemed to be merely a digest of the week's news, suited alone for rural readers.

This is not true in reference to the WEEKLY PRESS.

It is especially edited by a trained corps of writers selected for the purpose of making the best paper.

It is adapted to the improvement and enjoyment of both sexes, of all ages, of every family, whether a resident of the city, village or country.

Not a word of crime or impure suggestion in any part of the paper.

It is an old paper and carries its age and reputation equally well.

We will send the WEEKLY PRESS, subscription one year, $1.00, and REPUBLICAN, subsciption one year, $2.00, both, one year, one subscription price, $2.00.

We make this unexceptional proposition in order that the Weekly Press and REPUBLICAN may go on trial in every household in this county for an entire year.

FULLER IS THE MAN

Nominated for Chief Justice of the United States.

SOME OTHER NOMINATIONS.

Senate and House Hard at Work—Post-office Statistics—Public Buildings. Silver Coin and Bulletin. General News.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The president just sent to the senate the nomination of Melville W. Fuller, of Illinois, to be chief justice of the United States; David N. Burke, of New York, to be consul at Bahia; Francis Gross, of New York, to be assistant appraiser of merchandise in the district of New York, and a number of army promotions.

Melville W. Fuller is a native of the state of Maine. He is in his 55th year, a graduate of Bowdoin college; has never filled nor sought an office, and is a recognized leader of the Chicago bar, and has held a high place in the councils of the Democratic party. Early in the administration of Mr. Cleveland, he was tendered the solicitor generalship and subsequently positions on the civil service commission, interstate commerce commission, and Pacific railroad commission, all of which he declined. He has been held in the highest regard by the president and has been generally indorsed by western Democrats.

In personal appearance Mr. Fuller is unusually handsome; his hair and mustache are silvery and his features clear cut and intelligent. In stature he is short and slight, compared with his future associates on the supreme bench. Mr. Fuller is a man of high scholastic as well as legal attainments, and as an orator his talents have won him the title of the Chauncey M. Depew of the west. In politics he is best described as an old school Democrat. He was loyal in feeling during the war; is a believer in an advanced doctrine of states' rights and an advocate of simple government. He is a member of the Protestant Episcopal church and has been prominently identified with that organization and conspicuous in the Cheney and other famous ecclesiastical trials. He is well known in Washington as a practitioner before the supreme court.

When the nomination of Melville W. Fuller as chief justice of the United States reached the senate, by a singular coincidence, Minister Phelps and Senator Gray were sitting together on one of the sofas. The nomination was immediately made the subject of general whispered conversation, and, as far as could be ascertained, the comment was entirely favorable to the selection from every standpoint, Mr. Fuller's qualifications, and fitness being recognized on the Republican side of the chamber, while the political wisdom of the appointment is conceded by the Democrats who opposed the selection of Minister Phelps.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

The senate public buildings and grounds committee authorized favorable reports on the bills for public buildings at the following points: Monroe, La.; Fort Dodge, Ia.; Dover, N. H.; Sterling, Ills.; St. Paul, Minn.; Sedalia, Mo.; Asheville, N. C.; Atchison, Kan.; Wilmington, Del.; Emporia, Kan.; Duluth, Minn.; Waterbury, Conn.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Lynchburg and Petersburg, Va.

The committee heard Hon. Timothy Campbell, of New York, in favor of an appropriation of $3,000,000 to buy sites for public buildings in New York city.

POSTOFFICE STATISTICS.

The postmaster general sent to the senate, in response to a resolution calling for the information to be used in considering Mr. Paddock's bill providing for postoffices having gross receipts amounting to $3,000 a year, a statement showing the offices the incomes from which have exceeded that amount, and the amount of rent paid by the government for the accommodation of such postoffices. It shows that in Alabama there are 14 of such officers; in Arizona, 4; Arkansas, 10; California, 48; Colorado, 22; Connecticut, 38; Dakota, 24; Delaware, 4; Washington, 1; Florida, 13; Georgia, 20; Idaho, 20; Illinois, 11; Indiana, 62; Iowa, 84; Kansas, 76; Kentucky, 25; Louisiana, 6; Maine, 23; Maryland, 11; Massachusetts, 103; Michigan, 76; Minnesota, 28; Mississippi, 12; Missouri, 41; Montana, 10; Nebraska, 30; Nevada, 4; New Hampshire, 21; New Jersey, 53; New Mexico, 6; New York, 157; North Carolina, 16; Ohio, 102; Oregon, 10; Pennsylvania, 119; Rhode Island, 10; South Carolina, 10; Tennessee, 16; Texas, 49; Utah, 3; Vermont, 20; Virginia, 26; Washington territory, 9; West Virginia, 9; Wyoming, 4.

Of these postoffices, seventy-eight are located in government buildings.

WANTS MORE SILVER.

Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, introduced a bill to increase the monthly coinage of silver to $4,000,000.

THEY WANT TO KNOW, YOU KNOW.

In the senate Mr. Stewart introduced a resolution of inquiry as to the amount of silver bullion offered to the treasury department monthly since the passage of the coinage act of 1878, the prices asked, and names of sellers. The senate adopted a resolution calling for information as to appointments made in the interior department other than under the civil service grades, and the promotion of employes so appointed.

A resolution calling for information as to the appointments and removals made in the New York custom house under the present administration went over under objection.

The unearned and grant forfeiture bill was then taken up for further discussion.

In the house the call of states for the introduction of bills for reference was dispensed with, members being permitted to file their measures at the clerk's desk.

The house then went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill, and Mr. Grosvenor, of Ohio, took the floor in opposition to the bill.

BOND OFFERINGS.

The bonds offered to the government were as follows:

Registered 4s—$2,575,000 at 126⅛; $44,000 at 164; $3,000 at 126.

Coupon 4s—$80,000 at 126¼. Registered 4½s—$11,000 at 107¾. Total, $2,713,000.

Lockout Declared Off.

SANDWICH, Mass., May 1.—The workmen employed in the Boston and Sandwich glass works received official notice that the strikers' lookout which has been going on in all the factories of the United States since Jan. 2, has been declared off. It is said that the manufacturers conceded the rule 7, regarding the employment of apprentices, and the local members of the flint glass works held out for their demands. Whether the workmen have conceded anything is not known. The Boston and Sandwich Glass Company may or may not start up, the matter being in the hands of the directors. The co-operative factory will be completed under either circumstances.

A NEW AND DELICATE OPERATION.

The Eye of a Young Lady Spliced Out with a Rabbit's Eye.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—At the Germantown hospital Dr. L. Webster Fox, in the presence of a number of state and city physicians, performed an ophthalmic operation, known as the Von Hippie method, which consists of transplanting the cornea of a rabbit's eye to the eye of a human being. The patient was a young woman named Mrs. Annie Schick, who has suffered from concoma. The eye was bathed in an antiseptic fluid to kill any germs or material which might cause suppuration. A trephine, Professor Von Hipple's famous instrument, was then placed on the eye, and a piece of the cornea, seven-one hundredths of an inch in depth and four millimeters in width, was extracted. A piece of rabbit's eye, exactly the same size, was then cut out and placed in the opening of the patient's eye. The eyelids were then drawn down and the eyes bandaged up. This operation is the only one of its kind ever attempted in this country, and if it should prove successful it will be one of the grandest surgical achievements of the century.

HER LAST SENSATION.

Mrs. Cleveland Sets Washington Society Agog With Her New Sorrel Ponies. Old Albert Sits Behind.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Mrs. Cleveland has created quite a sensation during the past week driving down town in the mornings behind her new sorrel ponies to a very stylish phaeton, while Albert Hawkins, the venerable colored coachman, sits in the rumble. Albert, who has been coachman for all the presidents since Gen. Grant's time, is a very dignified and severe looking old darky, about as far removed from the ideal driver as can be imagined. But he took a determined stand about letting any of the youngsters around the White House stable sit in the rumble, not having as much confidence in Mrs. Cleveland's driving as she has herself. The president, too, approves of Albert as a judicious person to be with the ponies, which are extremely gay. At first Mrs. Cleveland only drove out on the country roads, where there was not much chance of running into things, but during the beautiful weather of the past few days she has gone down the avenue or F street every morning at a rattling pace, always with Miss Cleveland by her side.

Retrenchment on the Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—A decision has been reached by the management of the Pennsylvania Railroad company that, owing to the decrease in earnings, it is impracticable to make any heavy addition to the equipment of the company or to entertain any plans for the construction of new roads at this time. The result will be to reduce the working force in the shops and in the construction departments. The current expenses will also be cut down, but not so as to seriously interfere with the company's service. It was stated that 300 workmen had been discharged at the Altoona shops, and similar wholesale dismissals would likely occur in the remaining shops. While no department of the company's service will be allowed to suffer, all unnecessary branches will be lopped off and the closest scrutiny kept on the expenditures.

Another Battle with Yaquis.

NOGALES, A. T., May 1.—Gen. Guerra, commander of the first military zone of Sonora, telegraphs the governor under date of April 26 that Lieut. Juan Quintro, with federal forces, had a sharp battle with Yaqui Indians on the Tejambpo mountains, killing twenty-one and wounding one, who was taken prisoner. Manuel Escobas, of the federal forces, was dangerously wounded. In another dispatch, dated April 27, the general says: "Yesterday Capt. Argel Lanes, of the Mexican Home Guards, overtook a party of Yaqui rebels going toward Agua Caliente and had a fight with them, killing seven and capturing fourteen prisoners, mostly women and children, and a lot of guns and ammunition."

National Industrial Progress.

He Won't Do It Again.

BOSTON, May 1.—At 11 p. m. James O'Meara, a robust fellow of 25 years, while waiting for a horse car in Bowdoin square, amused the onlookers by mimicking the gait of a wooden legged cripple who passed by. In the midst of his mimicry, the leg upon which he was limping suddenly became rigid. A doctor was called and he pronounced it a case of spasmodic contraction of the muscles. The man was taken home, weeping profusely and declaring his misfortune to be a judgment upon him for his mockery.

Run Over by an Engine.

LYNN, Mass., May 1.—On Saturday night William Welch and John T. Goodwin, while wandering in an intoxicated condition about the Boston and Maine railroad freight yard here, were struck by a freight train locomotive. Goodwin was killed. Welch had his foot crushed and his collar bone broken. Goodwin's age was 30. He leaves a widow and a child here.

Self Protection.

DES MOINES, Ia., May 1.—Sixteen leading druggists of Davenport made a public announcement that they would not sell or dispense any alcoholic or intoxicating liquor for any purpose whatever. They took this step because of the troubles and trials which would arise in their business if they sold spirituous liquors. The Pharmaceutical association, which meets here this week, is likely to take action in the same direction.

Big Day's Work for the Bishop.

FALL RIVER, Mass., May 1.—Bishop Harkins, of Providence, visited this city. At St. Joseph's church he confirmed 184 children in the morning and 200 French Canadian children in the afternoon. He afterward dedicated the new French Catholic church of St. Matthew, the basement of which is now ready for occupation. Later he confirmed twenty children at St. Patrick's church, Somerset.

Drought Broken.

BURLINGTON, Ia., May 1.—The long continued drought was broken in a degree by a refreshing rain. It will be of great benefit to farmers, as corn that has been planted was in great danger of withering in the ground, and pastures were almost dried up.

A GERMAN'S VIEWS

English Eccentricities in the Fatherland.

THE QUEEN AND THE PRINCE

Things English That Would Not be Tolerated in Germany—No Women Allowed to Meddle in Government Affairs.

[Copyright, 1888.]

LONDON, May 1.—The virtual necessity of Queen Victoria's visit to Berlin was dispelled here, and it must be confessed that there was some anxiety concerning the manner in which the populace of the German capital would receive her. To the English mind foreigners, as the English complacently term all other peoples, are erratic and irresponsible beings, whose civilization is but superficial, and who, in short, in the tersest form of depreciation, are un-English. But German crowds are good natured in the main and the English sovereign ran no danger of being treated impolitely by the curious throng. The Berlin correspondent of a German diplomat now in London writes as follows of the queen's visit:

The personal appearance and singularities of the emperor's mother-in-law have been, of course, long known to Germans at all well informed, but the common people seemed surprised at her plainness. Certainly fortune appears to favor the female line of the Guelphs. In what other country than England would a woman have been so indulged in her bizarre proceedings as Queen Victoria has been? The John Brown episode alone, if it could have happened in any other nation, would have forced a ruler's retirement, and the many similar exhibitions of eccentricity, hardly less flagrant, in spite of the watchfulness of her entourage, have shocked the other courts of Europe, connected as most of them are by ties of marriage with her family. And the luck of our present empress! By the tenacity of life unexpectedly displayed by her husband she has attained to a share of the proudest throne of Europe, and at her widowhood will succeed to the magnificent endowment of an emperor's wife instead of the comparatively insignificant sum which he would have bequeathed to her as the crown prince. The notorious parsimony of the mother and daughter has made them unpopular with the lower classes, and is unworthy of the dignity of the positions which they fill. The Germans cannot understand the ridiculous attitude which royalty assumes in England, and the life led by the Prince of Wales would be unendurable to the son of any monarch on the continent. In fact, the form of government there seems to be a republic in disguise, and I think we may look forward to considerable changes at the close of the queen's reign, however it may end. When the emperor dies we shall see the last of Guelph influence in Germany, greatly, too, to the well being of our nation, for one thing which has made us strong has been the exclusion of female meddling from our politics. The wives of our later monarchs have been sensible enough to abstain from interference with affairs outside of their province and the sway of mistresses has been unknown.

FOREIGN NEWS AND GOSSIP.

Brief Cablegrams of Interest from All Parts of Europe.

ALEXANDRIA, May 1.—A party of escaped prisoners took possession of a mosque in Damanhour, near this city. The police surrounded the mosque and a desparate conflict ensued. Fifteen convicts were killed and two wounded. The police lost four men, killed and wounded.

DUBLIN, May 1.—One hundred men of the Sixteenth Rifle corps started for Gwendore to arrest another priest.

DUBLIN, May 1.—The election of Mr. T. Sexton, M. P., to the office of lord mayor has been declared valid by the unanimous vote of the judges of the court of queen's bench.

BERLIN, May 1.—Dr. Bergmann has retired from attendance upon the emperor. His place is filled by Dr. Bardeleben, director of the department of clinical surgery at the Charity hospital.

Comment on the Pope's Decree.

DUBLIN, May 1.—Cardinal Simeoni has written a letter to the Irish bishops from the propaganda, inclosing the papal decree relative to the plan of campaign and boycotting. Freeman's Journal says: "The decree will always command the tenants' respect, but the people understand their own affairs too well to allow hostile machinations to prevail. They have vigilant and able advocates, like Archbishop Walsh in Rome, and archbishops and bishops at home, whose support will never fail them." The Mitchelstown branch of the National league has discussed the decree and has decided that it will not take its politics from Rome. Notices have been posted in Kilrush threatening with the doom of James Carey, the Phoenix park informer, any one dealing with the inn keeper who harbored a constable who assaulted a priest during the efforts of the authorities to suppress a meeting of the National league at that place.

The Pope's Decree Condemned.

LONDON, May 1.—A meeting of English and Irish leaders of the Liberal and Nationalist parties of Parliament was held at Aldershot at which the pope's decree against the plan of campaign and boycotting in Ireland was discussed. The decree was strongly condemned, and it was resolved to found a home rule branch of the National league, which should contribute nothing to "Peter's pence."

A Policeman Caught Thieving.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Charles Rickerds, formerly a private in the United States army, who at the expiration of his term of enlistment was appointed on the police force on recommendation of the late Gen. Hancock, was arrested while in the act of removing some silverware from the store rooms of the auction house of Reilly & McElhinny, 8 Nassau street. He was on duty at the time. The firm had been missing articles for some time, and reported the fact to the captain of the precinct. A watch was set and Rickerds discovered to be the culprit. He was placed under arrest.

Rickerds was put on trial this afternoon, found guilty and sentenced to ten years in state prison.

Murder Mystery.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., May 1.—Mrs. Kearney, an aged lady possessed of considerable property, and her grandson, Eddie Hand, 8 years of age, were found murdered, Saturday, on Mrs. Kearney's ranch, near Edgerton, nine miles from here. Both were prominently connected in St. Louis. About a month ago they disappeared, and the neighbors thought they had left the country. Saturday Mrs. Beach, a daughter of Mrs. Kearney, arrived from St. Louis, and in company with a neighbor went to the ranch. In a stable near the house the body of Mrs. Kearney was found doubled up in a corner in a badly decomposed condition, and the body of the boy was found jammed in a feed box, also badly decomposed. The murder is enveloped in the deepest mystery and is supposed to have been committed for the purposes of robbery.

COVERED WITH BURNING OIL.

Probably Fatal Lamp Explosion in Pittsburg—Three Persons Hurt.

PITTSBURG, May 1.—A lamp explosion on the south side last night resulted in the serious injury of three persons, one of whom will probably die. Mrs. John Quillin, living at No. 310 Cabot way, started up stairs with a lighted lamp in her hand.

Just as she reached the top of the stairs the lamp exploded. Mrs. Quillin was covered from head to foot with oil, and her clothes ignited immediately. Overcome with fright, she ran to a window in her room and jumped out, alighting on a brick pavement thirty-five feet below. Her screams attracted the attention of the neighbors, who extinguished the flames and carried her into an adjoining house. Her clothing was almost burned off, and her body was burned to a crisp.

Meanwhile Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Kilroy, who lived in the same house and had retired for the night, were aroused by the report of the exploding lamp. Mr. Kilroy jumped from the front window and was badly injured. His wife ran to the stairs and was met by a volume of flames which filled the hall. She braved them, however, and ran down stairs, but was painfully burned about the arms, face and breast. Mrs. Quillin will probably not survive. Aside from her burns she was badly bruised and was hurt internally. The fire was extinguished without much loss to the building or contents.

THE PITCHER IS BROKEN.

Sudden Death of Charles J. Ferguson, the Famous Twirler for the Philadelphia Team.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1. — Charles J. Ferguson, the famous pitcher of the Philadelphia club, died in this city at his residence, No. 2,512 North Broad street, of typhoid fever. He was first taken ill with malarial fever about three weeks ago. His condition was not considered alarming until about a week ago, when his disease changed to typhoid fever, and he began to sink. Hope, however was not abandoned until Saturday, when he began to sink rapidly.

CHARLES J. FERGUSON.

Nearly all of the Philadelphia team and all of the Athletic players were present at the death bed, the Athletics having come in on the train from Brooklyn shortly before dissolution. Ferguson, however, recognized no one, and he was unconscious from noon until the end.

The deceased was one of the best pitchers in the profession, and his abilities as a batsman, base runner and general player were first class. His death leaves a hole in the Philadelphia team that his club will find it impossible to fill. He was 25 years of age, and came from Charlottesville, Va. He first attracted attention as a player in 1883, when he was a member of the Virginia club, of Richmond, Va., from which Nash, Johnston and Glenn were also graduated. In the fall of 1885 he was secured by the Philadelphia club, with which he has ever since been connected.

Germans Favor Gresham.

CHICAGO, May 1.—The Tribune says: "The pronouncement in Gresham's favor in the Belleville German district Saturday will have an important influence in the neighboring districts of Missouri and also in Kentucky. The German-American sentiment is so pronounced in its favor that it will affect the selection of delegates favorable to his candidacy in all the northwestern states. In the Wisconsin county conventions, held during the last week, it is noticeable that while the complimentary favorite son vote has been for Governor Rusk, the serious sentiment is for Gresham. The conventions in all the western states last week have materially improved the prospects of Judge Gresham's nomination. He will continue to grow rapidly in favor, as Lincoln did. The Republican masses will demand his nomination, no matter what the party managers may think about it. His boom is not manufactured by machine politicians, or literary bureaus, or traveling agents, like that of 'Honest John's,' but wells up like a living spring from the hearts of the people."

The Printers Will Be Heard.

BOSTON, May 1.—On April 19 the house of representatives of Massachusetts passed a resolve appropriating $2,000 for the purchase of printing materials and presses for the use at the state prison at Charlestown. By the time the resolve had reached the senate every senator had received a copy of a circular issued by Typographical Union No. 13, appealing to him personally to use his best endeavor to have the resolve recommitted with instructions for a hearing, so that the printers' union and others interested might lay before the senate the reasons why a measure which they considered inimical to the interests of their craft should be the subject of careful study. As a result of this appeal, the resolve was discharged from the orders of the day, under a suspension of the rules, and recommitted to the committee on prisons.

Murder Was Not Intended.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Coroner Nugent held the inquest into the death of "Red Leary," the notorious burglar, who died in New York hospital on April 21 from injuries caused by being struck on the head with a brick thrown by William Train, another burglar, on Sixth avenue a few nights before. The evidence showed that the killing was purely accidental, and the jury rendered a verdict accordingly, exonerating Train from all blame. Train was then discharged from custody.

Bricklayers Strike.

FALL RIVER, Mass., May 1.—The bricklayers and masons of this city struck work today because of a refusal by the contractors to accede to their demands for nine hours a day. The strikers are backed by the International Union and have the moral support of the Knights of Labor. It is said that the Laborers' union of this city will order a strike before night.

Depot and Freight Burned.

ST. JOHN, N. B., May 1.—Part of the intercolonial freight shed, with goods shipped by more than a dozen firms, was burned. The shed was about 1,000 feet long and 200 feet are destroyed. The goods were at the owner's risk and were not insured, nor was the building. The loss will be $50,000.

SPRING AT LAST.

And Northern Streams Are Just Finding It Out.

FLOODS IN MANY PLACES.

Rapid Rise in the Connecticut Causes Great Alarm—Damage Along the Merrimac—Freshets in Other Streams.

BELLOWS, FALLS, Vt., May 1.—A severe freshet, the worst since the memorable one of 1869, is threatened in this section. The Connecticut river commenced to rise on Saturday, and during the past forty hours has risen ten feet, and is still rapidly rising. The springs and smaller streams all remained frozen until within the past four days, when they were started by the severe heat. There is a vast quantity of snow within a few miles of the large streams, it being in some places five feet deep. This has commenced to start, and should the warm weather continue, the result is looked forward to with alarm. The larger tributaries of the Connecticut are all badly swollen and are fast rising. Little damage has yet been done.

BENNINGTON, Vt., May 1.—The snow in the forest on the Green mountain range is rapidly melting and pouring down on the farming lands along the river, causing considerable damage. Two railroad bridges have been swept away.

At Windsor the Connecticut river is twelve feet higher than usual, and many of the roads are under water.

MONTPELIER, May 1. — The Winooski river has risen considerably since Saturday, and all the cellars in the lower portions of the village are deluged. Several roads are impassable on account of the flood. At no time since the freshet of 1869 has the water been so high.

NEWPORT, N. H., May 1.—A pulp mill, barn and pentstock built last year by James H. Hubbard at an expense of $10,000 at Croyden Flat were swept out by the high water, together with the Excelsior shop and dam of Pillsbury and 200 cords of poplar pulp wood, also the blacksmith shop and other buildings, and the bridge over a branch of Sugar River at Croyden Flats. Loss, $20,000.

CONCORD, N. H., May 1. — The Merrimac river has been rising steadily since early Sunday. The highways are inundated, which interferes with travel from towns lying east of the city. The freshet is greater than that of 1884. The water is rising at the rate of 1½ inches an hour and much damage is liable to happen unless the water recedes.

HINSDALE, N. H., May 1.—The flood in the Connecticut has not for years been higher than now. The back water causes the Ashuelot to overflow its banks. No disaster is yet reported.

MILWAUKEE, May 1.—Reports received from the northwestern part of the state are to the effect that high water is again causing trouble. At Eau Claire many families are abandoning their homes on the flats. One of the city bridges is in danger. Several mills have been obliged to close. At Wausau several lumber yards are under water. Men are working day and night to save property.

The railroad bridges are being held down by carloads of dirt and a portion of the boom is out. The water is still rising. The same is true at Stevens Point, where, however, no damage has occurred as yet. Log driving has been abandoned on some of the streams on account of high water.

Color Line in Church.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 30.—The schism in the Episcopal church over the admission of negro clergymen into the diocesan convention is assuming serious proportions. A half dozen prominent members of Dr. Porter's church seceded and rented pews in Grace church. Dr. Porter's is the only "high church" in the city, but the cause of the secession was not the question of church service. Dr. Porter has been one of the most stanch advocates of Bishop Howe in claiming the right of the colored delegates to admission to the convention. The convention meets at Anderson next week, and lively times are expected.

ON THE EVE OF A STRIKE.

St. Louis Brewers Make a Proposition and Will Stand by It.

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—The brewers held a meeting with closed doors, and after a long consultation agreed upon a contract which they will submit to the boss brewers to-morrow. They say that they will stand upon the result of the contract.

The boss brewers some time ago declared that they would not again sign the contracts now in force, and will deal directly with the men. The terms of the contract will not be made public until after being submitted. As the case now stands there are indications of a strike or a lockout by Tuesday. All of the large brewery companies are determined on a course which they say is simply running their own business.

STONE ON THE STRIKE.

The Rate War and the Labor Troubles Have Postponed Extensive Improvements that Would Have Been Made.

CHICAGO, May 1. — General Manager Stone, of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, who returned to the city from a health recruiting trip, said that he did not think it probable that any of the proposed extensions of the company east of the Missouri river would be constructed this year, the rate disturbance and the strike having completely upset all plans in that direction.

He was not familiar with the projects of General Manager Holbridge to say what would be done west of the river. He knew that considerable work in the way of surveys had been done in the mountains, looking to the construction of an independent line by the Burlington to Salt Lake and the coast, but he did not think it probable that the grading and construction would be carried out. While admitting that the effect of the strike was still felt to some extent, he thought this would soon disappear. The strike he now regards as a thing of the past.

Death of a Boston Scholar.

BOSTON, May 1.—A cable dispatch announces the death of the Rev. William H. B. Deasy, of Boston, the vice rector of the American college at Rome. Fr. Deasy was a graduate of the Boston Latin school and of Seton Hall college at South Orange, N. J. He was 30 years old, and had lived in Rome for the past eight years.

Two Girls Drowned.

OAKLAND, Ills., May 1.—Two girls named Stokes and Williams were drowned in a pond near Tilson. While they were wading in the water they fell into an old stock well, unknown to them, and lost their lives.

Dangerous and Difficult.

HELENA, Mont., May 1.—Examination of the damage by fire at the Mullen tunnel on the Northern Pacific shows that the overhead line will be the only means of crossing the mountains for some time. Of the 900 feet of sheds at the western entrance of the tunnel less than 100 feet remain standing, and that is the beginning of the structure. A force of men is at work clearing out the debris. The ground there is of a dry and crumbling character, and it is constantly becoming drier from the heat. It will require the removal of an immense quantity of earth after the fire shall have been extinguished. Every precaution is taken by the company, and each train is taken across the range by experienced men.

Vessels and Crews Given Up.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—Four missing schooners, which were seen off the coast just before the great blizzard and have not been heard of since, have been given up for lost with their crews. These vessels are the William G. Lewis, which sailed from Newport News on Feb. 28 for Boston; the Henry P. Culver, from Baltimore to Boston; John S. Merrow, from Baltimore to Providence, and the Rachel Collins, from Norfolk to Philadelphia. The crews numbered over forty men, and the vessels with their cargoes were estimated to be worth over $150,000.

Waiting for Spring in Michigan.

MACKINAW CITY, Mich., May 1.—A cold rain fell all day Sunday and the ice has not changed. Open water can be seen around Waugoshance, but from there to here it is one vast field of ice, white and solid. It is not thought that boats can get through for some days yet. The mercury is at 35.

The Weather.

Threatening weather followed by light rains, colder, light to fresh variable winds becoming generally easterly.

Cooking as a Part of Girl's Education.

Governor Beaver is of opinion that cooking is as valuable a part of a girl's knowledge as are arithmetic or other such branches of education. To confirm this we take from the Pittsburg Dispatch this account of what he did and said in that city on Friday:

Shortly after Governor Beaver arrived in the city yesterday morning he was captured by Superintendent Luckey, Secretary Reisfar, and President of the Central Board McKelvy, who took him first to the Grand School to see the school kitchen as managed by Miss Torrey, and a number of dishes in preparation were tested by the Governor, the first time any man has done so. A cup of cocoa was made, and then a short speech in praise of the school kitchen was made. The High School was next visited, and an address was made to the pupils, who were marched out to the front of the building. The Normal School, on Miller street, was also called at, and a short speech was made.

Later in the day the Governor expressed himself at length regarding the school kitchen, and said he thought cooking was as much of a girl's education as arithmetic and other studies.

One More Sudden Death.

We hear with great regret of the sudden death of Mr. George Meese, which occurred at his home in Patton township, on Friday morning, the 27th. The age of deceased was 70 years. He had been in feeble health during the past year, but on Friday morning was not considered worse than usual. He eat his breakfast and then suddenly expired in his seat before rising from the table.

He was a most excellent and widely known citizen. In his obligations to his Father above and to his fellowman he left no duty unperformed. He entered into that most important relation in life, connection with the visible church of God, the faith of the United Brethren branch of the one true and holy church claiming his adherence and support. In that comforting communion he passed away to enter upon celestial joys.

The funeral services were held on Sunday at 10 o'clock a. m. in the U. B. church.

—On Friday evening Governor Beaver was present at a banquet held in Pittsburg in celebration of Gen. Grant's birthday. He spoke on the subject of "The Keystone State" and how she had helped in Grant's grand achievements. The Governor retired from the banquet at 9 o'clock, just after the third course had been served, to go to Philadelphia where, on Saturday he was to meet the Governors of the thirteen original States to arrange for a centennial celebration.

—It was very kind of the Bellefonte Silver Cornet Band to take part in the Arbor day exercises on Friday afternoon. There is no other single agency which does more to give eclat to an occasion of that sort than a band of music and the Bellefonte band plays very sweetly and artistically. While the audience were yet inside the building the band came to the school house and the music was wafted in almost impelling the young people to rush out even before the exercises inside were finished. During the remainder of the afternoon and while the ceremonies were in progress on the campus the band played its most delightful airs. This, we believe, was its first appearance in the day time and it did itself much credit.

—There were fires on the mountains on both sides of Bellefonte on Sunday night. The sight was beautiful, grand and awe-inspiring, but certainly it is to be regretted that there are such fires, as in a few minutes they will burn up the profits of several arbor days.

The Tongue.

The sermon delivered in the Episcopal church, by the rector, on Sabbath morning, was about the tongue; or at least on a subject nearly akin to it—the conversation in which the tongue engages. The text was part of the 19th verse of the 1st chapter of St. James, "Be swift to hear, slow to speak!" Silence is gold, speech is silver is a maxim which he quoted. To be a good listener is more difficult than to be a good talker. The injunction of the text is—be swift to hear, slow to speak.

On the subject of our speech he told of five different kinds which are wrong and harmful. Idle words—such as the silly, foolish and vain talk in which even some polite people engage was first enumerated. For it we must give an account. People who can talk sensibly and on sensible subjects often exchange such twaddle to an extent that leads one to question whether they have as much brain power and application of it as others.

Gossip was the next division he made. Sometimes words are said of others which were better left unsaid. The remark becomes distorted and made worse, just as a snowball increases in size by being rolled in the soft snow. Two rules were given. The first—"Say nothing but good of another." The second is credited to St. Theresa—"Speak not of persons but of things."

The habit of uttering evil stories was condemned in forcible language. These stories are such as man would not want his family to hear. Even society women in the larger cities commit this offence. It is alarmingly prevalent.

Blasphemy was the next division. It is needless to refer to his condemnation of this sin. One cannot walk from the church to the Diamand without hearing terrible oaths, even from small boys. Exaggeration was the final division: The temptation to make a story more wonderful is universal. So much of this is done that it partakes of a lie. The temptation appeals to one's vanity. By making the event more remarkable one becomes more interesting and less commonplace.

The sermon was certainly a timely one, and if its teachings are heeded will be of incalculable profits.

—The work of moving the five-span iron bridge, one mile west of Mapleton, was successfully accomplished on Thursday morning. After Sea Shore Express passed the bridge at 8:57 o'clock, the tracks were cut loose at each end of the bridge and every man in place at the windlasses placed on the outer end of each new support, the ropes soon began to tighten and the massive structure showed signs of moving on the small iron rollers. The bridge is a double track iron one 510 feet long, and its weight is estimated at 910 tons, and was moved a distance of 33 feet in 23 minutes from the first start until in position, 9 minutes of this time being consumed by ropes giving out and having to be replaced, leaving the actual moving time 14 minutes. The whole structure moved bodily and in line, which was regulated by Master Mechanic L. E. Wimer, who stood on the middle of the bridge and gave signals with a handkerchief. This is the longest bridge ever moved by the Pennsylvania R. R. Co., and reflects great credit upon the projectors of the work, C. S. Bechdolt, assistant engineer, and L. E. Wimer, master mechanic of the middle division. A ten-arch stone bridge will be built to take the place of the iron one.—Tyrone Herald.

Do You Bank?

Always indorse checks you send by mail. State to whose order they are payable.

In purchasiug a bank draft make it out to your own order. Then indorse on the back, "Pay to receiver, whoever he may be, or order." If the draft is lost in the mails you can obtain a duplicate.

The law says in all losses from flagrant carelessness the careless one shall be the loser.

If ordinary caution in banking is displayed and your check is raised or forged the bank suffers the loss.

Reckon neither Sunday nor legal holidays.

The holder of a note or check may give notice of protest either to all the previous indorsers or only to the last indorser.

Individual or firm printed checks are the safest.

If checks do not return to you within a reasonable time, and you get no receipt for same from supposed receivers, notify the bank on which it is drawn of the number of the check and party to whom it was made out to.

Beatiful Spring Styles.

Sunday was a successful day in Bellefonte in the number of new clothes which were exhibited. New clothes, we say—not last year's summer dresses made over. Some of the bonnets were paragons of beauty. One was a fine white silk. It must have been new, of course, because a white bonnet of last year would have been soiled, but this was as white as a Christmas snow. A straw colored bonnet trimmed with lace was very pretty. A white straw hat which well become the lovely wearer was worn very saucily so the front of it reached down over the arched eyebrows and was trimmed with a wreath of pink blossoms. It was the loveliest article of head gear that made its appearance.

Most of the new spring and summer dresses are made of two kinds of material, one of which is silk. The principal part is plain and the other part which serves as sort of trimming is striped or figured. There are, however, some pretty exceptions to this rule of making the gown of two materials. Lovely checked goods in bright color and a delicate blue or gold were seen occasionally and formed a suitable contrast. The gowns are made tight and snug, so the faultless figures shows off best in them.

Rev. O. Hicks of Duncansville, Pa., formerly drummer boy in Co. C, 7th O. V. I, and Ord, Serg't Co. B, O. V. V. I., delivered an illustrated lecture on the evening of May 1st, being the 25th anniversary of the battle of Chancellorsville. Rev. Hicks is one of the liveliest M. E. preachers in the Altoona district and the church which he presides over will not remain inactive during his administration.

GREAT INVENTION.

"I have invented an ink," said a man to an acquaintance, "that will make my fortune."

"I didn't think there was so much money in ink," the acquaintance replied.

"Ordinarily, no; but in this ink there is. You may write a line with it and it will show up black, but in ten minutes afterward the paper will be as blank as if a pen had never touched it."

"I see no advantage in that."

"You don't? Well, you have never lived in a community where it is the fashion to slip in on a fellow, put a pistol to his head and make him sign a libel. I have known many a high-spirited and prosperous young man to be ruined in that way. Now, if a man sitting at a desk, had a bottle of my ink before him he would be safe. He could sign the libel and let the fellow take the paper away with him. Then he could arm himself and wait for the fellow to come back. I tell you what, this ink will save many a reputation and be worth many a dollar to me."

—One of the great mistakes made by ladies with window and indoor plants is in giving them too much water. Evaporation is lower in cool weather, and the amount of water needed by a plant for one day in July will do for half a dozen days in March of April. The best rule is never to water until the soil is thoroughly dry.

—Juniata Valley Methodists will celebrate the centennial of the church in that section on September 9. A meeting of pastors will be held on May 2 to make arrangements.

The Coupler Invention.

The patentees of the coupler invention mentioned in the Republican of last week, have received a letter from Mr. Wm. Buchanan, general superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad, in which he says that the invention is a very valuable one, and that he will have it tested at once. Mr. Buchanan's letter is very complimentary to the inventors, and they feel very much encouraged over the prospects of their invention.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, April 30th, '88.

"Blaine and Depew will be the ticket nominated by the Chicago convention, and they will carry New York by over 25,000 majority." The speaker was a New York republican who for many years was closely connected with the late Roscoe Conkling in political affairs, and who refused to vote for Blaine in 1884. In reply to my questions he said: "Mr. Conkling and his friends—myself included—made a mistake in refusing to support Mr. Blaine. We saw it when too late to change the result, but we propose to make amends this year by insisting upon the nomination of Mr. Blaine Mr. Conkling was thoroughly in sympathy with this movement and had he lived would have stumped the state for Blaine. Mr. Blaine was defeated by our defection in the State of New York. He stood the punishment like a man, and now we intend to see that he is rewarded for his long service and fidelity to the principles of the republican party, and in order to make assurance doubly sure we propose to put Chauncey Depew, New York's brainiest and most popular son, on the ticket with him. Blaine and Depew made a combination that will be invincible in New York."

Will Mr. Depew accept the second place on the ticket? I asked. "Yes, with Blaine first. He thinks Blaine the greatest living American, and would make almost any personal sacrifice to help to make him President.

If this programme is to be carried out what is to become of the booms of all the other "favorite sons" of the various States? "When they are informed, as they will be at the proper time, that this ticket is the unanimous choice of the united republican party of the State of New York, and its nomination will take that State out of the doubtful column and restore it to its oldtime position at the head of the republican column, they will all acquiesce and the nomination will be made by acclamation. Then will follow the most enthusiastic campa

The Tramp Question.

Our excellent policemen are nonplussed in regard to the question of what to do with the tramps. Sometimes they arrest them, but the result is not satisfactory. Too often, they say, the tramp, after arrest, is let go Scot free. Nevertheless, the police must do their duty. They are obliged to arrest the man who is evidently a professional tramp. Especially at the present there is no excuse for tramping or begging. Work is abundant. The police should discriminate some in their arrests. There are big healthy fellows who beg and with whom there is no possible excuse for not earning their bread by hard work as other men do. Such men, it seems to us, can easily be proven to be professional tramps and the proper punishment can be visited upon them.

—A Clearfield gentleman writes to the postmaster at this place to learn the names of the Bellefonte merchants. He assigns as a reason the fact that he wants to purchase some potatoes. This, it seems to us, is a commentary, either derogatory to the enterprise of the Bellefonte merchants or to the intelligence of the Clearfield gentleman. Now, if the gentleman would consult the DAILY NEWS he would find the names of numerous prominent merchants and be saved the trouble of writing. Though the merchants patronize the NEWS to a greater extent than they do any other paper in the town, the fact is that they do not advertise as much as they should. It pays to advertise all the time. We frequently have people calling in this office to see newspapers from other places, solely for the purpose of judging of the town and its business by what they see in the papers. If they see but few advertisements they naturally conclude that there is a lack of business life and competition.

Don't Vaut to Trade Free.

Say! Hans vat vas all dis I see apoud free tradin? I hear dem talked apoud it on der sthreed und in der noosbapers. Und den I hear dem talk so mooch apoud dat pill of Mills und all sich like. Now off dey vant to trade vy doantd dey trade? If they doant vant to trade free, let vun of de fellows vats tradin' give some bootd. Vat is dot you say? Chonny Pull has vool and iron und sich dings to trade? Vel, eh, my vool is yoost so goot anypody's vat has a sheep. I doant could see any use in tradin' free, for ven I trades I vants to make sometings. If anypody vants me to trade my vool mitoutd bootd he is mistaken.

GOTTLIEB DONNERBECK.

Civil Business in Court.

The criminal business was almost entirely completed on the first two days of court. The case of Harris township vs. The Bellefonte and Boalsburg Turnpike Company occupied nearly all of Wednesday and resulted in a verdict of $107.21 for Harris township. It was very ably conducted by Dale and Keller for plaintiff and Beaver & Gephart for defense. Col. Keller's argument was a close and convincing one.

Lazarus Moyer, of Philadelphia, sues Martin Haley, of Snow Shoe, for money due on the price of w iskey Keller is conducting the case for the plaintiff and Mr. Reeder is Mr. Haley's attorney.

—It is certainly fortunate that the new hardware firm of H. A. McKee & Brother have in their employ such a capable and efficient hardware man as Mr. William K. Ludwig. Mr. L's ability is widely known and acknowledged and the firm will be able to conduct the business in the most progressive manner. The proprietors, H. A. and James McKee, are excellent business men. This starts the new firm, who are successors of H. K. Hicks & Brother on a successful business career. Their stock of hardware is large and very superior and the people of Centre county should call on them for bargains in their line of goods.

—Women are generally supposed to have the greater curiosity, but a man riding in the cars the other day, near Renovo, showed that his bump of curiosity is developed to even a greater extend than that of the average female. The train ran over a cow and slackened speed. So eager was the man's curiosity to see what was the matter that he could not wait to raise the car window. He thrust his head directly through the window, shivering the glass, but, unfortunately, not hurting his head. Whether or not he learned the cause of the train's temporary detention we do not know.

—The General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will not convene until May 1 and will continue until May 29. The election of four bishops will be the most important event. The prominent candidates are Dr. Vincent, Dr. J. M. King, Dr. Botts, of the Drew Theological Seminary, and Dr. Fitzgerald, of Newark. We think that Rev. D. S. Monroe, D. D., would make a first-class bishop.

—There are at present in town two bachelors from the West who are searching for a wife. On Friday, being a favorable day for the purpose, they stood in the promenade where the ladies stroll and carefully watched about seventy of them. Of this number, twenty are married and are of course out of the question. The fifty unmaried ones may congratulate themselves that from them at least one of the eligible, wealthy and good-looking bachelors has made a choice. The other has not yet expressed himself on the subject.

Centre County Pomona Grange No. 13

The next regular meeting of the Centre County Pomona Grange will convene in the hall of Washington Grange, two miles west of the State College, on Tuesday, May 22d. The morning session will open promptly at 9:30 a. m. The degree of Pomona will be conferred at 1 p. m. Every Grange in the county should be fully represented, as the holding of our annual county picnic and exhibition will be under consideration. Also many other matters pertaining to the welfare of the Order and that of agriculture. This will be a special opportunity to the members of Washington, Leonard, Centre, Victor and Halfmoon Granges to be invested with the very pretty and impressive "Degree of Pomona," which has no precedent. All can be admitted upon the recommendation of their respective Subordinate Granges, irrespective of numbers. Let us make this a grand entertainment long to be remembered. This is a commodious and convenient hall to meet in, and a banqueting hall near by, where lunch can be set. There is, however, no hotel here, but stabling will be secured for horses near by, and all should provide their own feed. Patrons are expected to provide their own lunch, so that we will not be a burden to the members of Washington Grange to wait upon us. Let every Patron do his or her part to make this a grand meeting.

I. S. FRAIN, Master.

JAS. C. GILLILAND, Sec'y.

David Brickly Gets Rid of a Lizzard.

David Brickly is an old resident of Curtin township. At times, during the past five months, he has suffered with pains in the stomach. The case was quite inexplicable, though the attending physicians supposed he might have an ulceration of the stomach and treated him accordingly. On Thursday of this week, April 26, he felt quite ill and in the vomiting which ensued ejected from his stomach a dead lizzard. The animal was about four inches in length and was partly decomposed.

Mr. Brickly at once began to feel better and expects now to rapidly regain his usual health. He believes he swallowed the animal last fall while drinking water in the dark at his well. In this connection, it is as well to warn people not to drink in the dark. Scientist teach us that there is enough of invisible creation in water without drinking that which may be visible to the eye.

Concord, N. H., Sept. 3, 1887

In my own family Athlophoros was used as a last resort, the user having suffered from rheumatism for years and having been treated for the disease by different physicians in this State and Massachusetts without even temporary relief. Upon my recommendation scores of people have used this remedy with the same results claimed for it. C. H. WILSON.

The treatment of many thousands of cases of those chronic weaknesses and distressing ailments peculiar to females, at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., has afforded a vast experience in nicely adapting and thoroughly testing remedies for the cure of woman's peculiar maladies.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the outgrowth, or result, of this great and valuable experience. Thousands of testimonials, received from patients and from physicians who have tested it in the more aggravated and obstinate cases which had baffled their skill, prove it to be the most wonderful remedy ever devised for the relief and cure of suffering women. It is not recommended as a "cure-all," but as a most perfect Specific for woman's peculiar ailments.

As a powerful, invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system, and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine, "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a legitimate medicine, carefully compounded by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate organization. It is purely vegetable in its composition and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the system. For morning sickness, or nausea, from whatever cause arising, weak stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred symptoms, its use, in small doses, will prove very beneficial.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb, inflammation, pain and tenderness in ovaries, accompanied with "internal heat."

As a regulator and promoter of functional action, at that critical period of change from girlhood to womanhood, "Favorite Prescription" is a perfectly safe remedial agent, and can produce only good results. # THE ARBITRATORS

Mr. Untermeyer, Counsel for the Bosses, Gets Awake.

CARRIES WAR TO MILWAUKEE.

Bringing Out Testimony to Show the Anarchistic Tendencies of the Brewers—President Gompers Objects to the Imputation.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The state board of arbitration resumed its investigation of the controversy between the journeymen and boss brewers.

Mr. Untermeyer, counsel for the boss brewers, called for the minutes of the meetings held by the Journeymen's union. Counsel for the latter objected.

The cross examination of Secretary Herbrand of the Journeymen's union was then proceeded with. Witness acknowledged that the union had printed and distributed circulars calling for the boycotting of Milwaukee beer; denied that the union had paid for a circular containing a resolution adopted by the American Federation of Labor at Baltimore in December last, calling upon all trades unions to abstain from drinking Milwaukee beer, and identified another circular calling for the boycotting of Milwaukee beer as having been paid for by the executive committee of the National union.

Counselor Untermeyer demanded that the books of the National union be produced in order that he might show that the major portion of $120,000 contributed to the union in the past two years had found its way into the pockets of the leaders. This demand was not entertained by Chairman Purcell, of the arbitration board, and Mr. Untermeyer asked the witness if the journeymen brewers in Chicago, on the day of the Anarchists' executions, did not make the day a holiday without consulting the bosses. Witness replied he had heard of it. A book containing the minutes of the meeting of the National union was handed witness. It contained a resolution referring to the Milwaukee boycott, and provided for the furnishing of a black list to all union brewers and maltsters containing the names of the boycotted brewers.

A resolution was also read calling for the boycotting of Brewer Buckel. Both resolutions were dated Oct. 13, 1887. Witness admitted sending a telegram to Milwaukee on Nov. 11, 1887, ordering a strike. Here the examination of the witness with regard to the minutes was temporarily suspended, it having been found necessary to send for an interpreter. Counselor Untermeyer then showed a copy of The Brewers' Zeitung, of which witness is associate editor, containing an article deploring the fate of the Chicago Anarchists, printed shortly after their execution, under the caption, "The sacrifice has been made." Witness said the local unions contributed to the defense of the Anarchists, but the National union did not.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor, representing the journeymen, objected to the line of examination, asserting that an effort was being made to make the men appear as Anarchists. He also said it appeared to him that the board was called upon to arbitrate on Milwaukee troubles, and not on the troubles in this city and vicinity. Mr. Gompers claimed he could show that the National union did everything it could to settle the Milwaukee troubles amicably.

Brewers Still Firm.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The journeymen brewers and drivers say they are still standing firm despite the assertions of Secretary Seiffert that there was nothing to be said, the struggle being entirely over. Their meetings were crowded, as usual, but little business was done, owing to the absence of most of the officers, who were attending the investigation by the arbitration commissioners. All the locked out men have received the weekly benefit from the union.

The Fight in New Jersey.

NEWARK, N. J., April 28.—Five more brewers, making fourteen in all, signed the contract. Reports were received from Greenville, Elizabeth, Trenton, Centreville, Orange and Perth Amboy, stating that the union men were getting along well in those towns.

Disappearance of a Bridegroom-Elect.

NEW YORK, April 28.—H. D. Cooke, son of the superintendent of the Consolidated Stock and Petroleum Exchange, was to have been married on Wednesday at St. George's church to Miss Jeannette Milnor, daughter of the late Charles Milnor, partner in the firm of Morton, Bliss & Co.' When the guests arrived at the church they were informed that the wedding had been postponed. It seems that young Cooke disappeared on Sunday evening and has not since been heard from. His accounts with the Dennis Manufacturing company, for whom he was bookkeeper, are all right.

Harry Cook, the young man who mysteriously disappeared on the eve of his marriage to Miss Jeannette Milnor, the daughter of Charles E. Milnor, of the firm of Morgan, Bliss & Co., was found at an early hour by his father wandering aimlessly in the neighborhood of Sixth avenue and Forty-first street. He was taken to his home, where he now lies in a semi-conscious condition. He is of a very nervous temperament, and it is believed that his mind has become somewhat unsettled.

New York Newspaper Trust.

NEW YORK, April 28.—The Press says that a trust to be known as the great New York Newspaper trust, pool and combine has been formed by The World, Times, Tribune and Sun, and that the price of those journals to dealers on Sundays hereafter, commencing next Sunday, will be three cents.

Suffocated in a Cistern.

ST. LOUIS, April 28.—Anton Wildvogel and Emil Schuler were suffocated by foul air while cleaning a cistern. One of them remaining inside for some time, the other entered the cistern to investigate. Neither of them returned, and their dead bodies were found when a search was mad

Fatal Cyclone.

PRATT, Kan., April 28.—Mrs. William Fisher was killed and several houses demolished by a cyclone which struck this city. A number of other people were seriously hurt by flying debris. This is the second cyclone which this place has experienced so far this spring.

Barrymore Defeated.

NEW YORK, April 28.—Judge Barrett denied the application of Maurice Barrymore, through his counsel, for an injunction restraining the further production of the play "La Tosca" on the grounds that it was copied from his play "Nadjezda."

ARBOR DAY.

HOW IT WAS OBSERVED IN THE HIGH SCHOOL.

Inspiring Music, Notable Addresses and Impressive Ceremonies

THE BURGESS, TWO MINISTERS THE BELLEFONTE BAND AND SCORES OF PEOPLE PARTICIPATE.

Arbor day, April 27, was by far the most perfect day of the season. Thursday was its nearest approach in general loveliness, but Friday capped the climax. It was the day appointed by Governor Beaver for the planting of trees and shrubs, and the schools of Bellefonte took advantage of the occasion to beautify the spacious grounds of the new school house.

We believe all the other schools suspended the session in the afternoon and the pupils generally united with the High School in the exercises. Added to these were quite a number of visitors representing the citizens of the town and the need for a large audience room once more became apparent.

They began about 2 o'clock p. m., President of the School Board D. F. Fortney and Rev. W. H. H. Snyder and Rev. Mr. Hayden occupying seats on the platform. The school choir of sixteen persons rendered that appropriate song, "Beautiful Songs of the Spring." This was followed by an invocation by Rev. Mr. Hayden.

Mr. Fortney delivered a pertinent introductory address. The forests, he said, have been greatly depleted, and the Governor has been directed by the General Assembly to appoint an Arbor day once or twice a year. Such an institution on Arbor day is of great benefit in beautifying school grounds as there is not a school house which should not have trees about it.

Arbor day is telling on the nurseries, and it is almost impossible to obtain certain kinds of trees. Natural trees are the kind that are most desired. A few sugar maples had been procured. The grounds of the school are destitute of trees with the exception of one noble oak, the age of which he did not know, but which he had determined should be left standing. He enumerated trees which might be placed in the campus—the weeping maple, the weeping birch, beech, etc. Vines and shrubs may be placed along the terrace. He instanced as worthy of emulation the custom of Geo. W. Childs in asking every guest at his home, "Wooten," to plant a tree ere he leaves. Mrs. Cleveland had planted a tree there.

After very delightful music by the choir, Rev Mr. Snyder, pastor of the Reformed church, was introduced and proceeded to deliver an admirable and deeply interesting address. He said that the assembly was for the purpose of giving encouragement to the project of restoring to Nature her natural growth of trees. Man's first dwelling place was in the garden of Eden. He was put there to dress and keep it. Because of disobedience, God drove man from the garden.

Are we not neglecting our duty? We do not evince any lack of progress in cultivating the soil; we have beautiful and productive farms, but we are neglecting the cultivation of trees.

We are every year importing fruit which might be produced at home were we careful in the cultivation of trees. In certain portions of Europe trees grow along the highways. A plea against the public exposure of fruit trees is that it offers temptation to steal fruit. Let us not destroy or cause a scarcity of what is of use with the idea of decreasing crime. Every lot in this town would be richer if fruit trees grew thereon. Trees stand at the head of all productions in point of aesthetic taste. What can be more grateful to the traveler than to walk along the roadside in the luxuriant shade? We can well stand criticism in this county for our well tilled acres, but how about the trees? As we look from a high place at Bellefonte, with its many attractions, its greatest deficiency is in the small number of trees, and prominent among the barren places is the location of the school building. Above all productions, trees beget companionship, and we can enter into the poetic plea—

> "Woodman, spare that tree,
> Touch not a single bough;
> It sheltered me in youth
> And I'll protect it now."

The speaker, while at Franklin and Marshal College, had planted his tree on the college campus. It was on Good Friday, in 1861, and he had taken it from the beautiful Conestoga.

Do not say, "I will not plant a tree because I will not be here to enjoy it," but say rather, "I will plant it that it may be of use to others." The speaker quoted from some one who said that every complete man has married a wife, written a book and planted a tree. The first each one of the young men would do, he knew, by the number of charming young ladies in the other side of the room. However, whether they did either of the first two, let each one of them be sure to say, "I have planted a tree." He humorously recalled what had been written in a composition by the son of a distinguished judge living less than one hundred miles from Bellefonte. The lad named one hundred and fifty of the different varieties of trees and added, "there are many more too numerous to mention."

The programme called for addresses by by friends of education, and Mr. Fortney called on Burgess Spangler. That popular official explained what had impelled him to visit the school. It was the fact that he is the highest municipal officer, though much against his will. Where he had come from they were engaged in cutting down trees, and he was surprised that all of Bellefonte was astir about planting trees. It had even brought there his esteemed friend, Dr. Loeb, and the philosopher and divine, Mr. Holz. Yes, even the brass band is tooting outside over the tree planting. So important is the subject that the political parties will soon incorporate tree planting in the party platform. The Democrats will favor hickory trees and the Republicans will fight for the pine.

The next speaker was District Attorney Meyer, who was the first principal of the schools. The gentleman considered this speech making an innovation on the programme. He does not feel envious because the schools now represent a plane of education so much higher than they did when he was the principal. His speech was a most excellent one and was well received.

Rev. Mr. Hayden was the next speaker. He had come in obedience to an irresistible impulse. When he was a rollicking lad he had been lively in disposition, and could yet enter into and enjoy the pleasures of the young. He quoted from an old Latin poet the sentence: "The civilized man plants a tree the fruit whereof he does not expect to partake." It does not take the trees long to grow. In a few years the trees you plant to-day will be beautiful shade trees. He realized this in his own experience. They link our lives with the past in a vital way. He concluded with a reminiscence of his acquaintance with James A. Garfield.

The choir sang the National hymn, which concluded the proceedings inside. The assembly adjourned to the campus to listen to the band and to formally plant several trees. When the first tree was planted on the eastern part of the campus the schools of Misses Rankin and Hewes sang a very appropriate selection, which sounded unusually sweet in the open air. John Wagner, ex-Director John Moore and others planted the trees scientifically. When tree No. 2 was planted the pupils of Misses Levy and Powers rendered the music. Tree No. 3 brought forth a bit of oratorical poetry by Charles Noll, the orator of his class; for No. 4, Boyd Musser was the orator; No. 5 was planted to the graceful rhythm of Charley Garner's oratory. It was something about being co-workers with Nature and was well spoken. The last tree on that side produced an excellent, though brief, oratorical deliverance by John Bayard.

All adjourned to the western extreme of the campus where the graduating class tree was planted, Lee B. Woodcock being the orator. This was a fitting finale.

A FEW NOTES.

Several more trees will be planted, and there are likely "more to follow."

Ed. Butts not only graced the occasion by writing "Arbor Day, 1888", quite artistically on the board, but he also wore a straw hat.

The colors, purple and gold, emblazoned several buttonholes.

Francis Speer didn't speak. We asked him to, but he said he felt too much elevated.

Frank Bible said the occasion lacked only one thing. He wanted some refreshments. It would be delicious to sit under the big oak and eat Roman Punch.

—The fire at Curtin's Station, on Tuesday, was the burning of the wagon maker's shop connected with Curtin & Company's forge. It caught from a spark from the forge. The building burned rapidly and the fire made unusually intense heat, so that it was difficult to battle successfuly. The building burned was worth about $200. The most important loss was of the contents, consisting of a large quantity of material for wagons. On the property destroyed we believe there was no insurance. Some tools belonging to the wagon maker were saved.

—Attention is directed to the small advertisements in this paper. They seem to include everything anyone can desire. Houses for sale or rent, help wanted, fancy and plain sewing, and miscellaneous items, and a dozen other things that are too numerous to mention. It will pay every reader to be familiar with the contents of this column, as he may find in it something to direct him in finding just what he needs. Ladies, too, will be very much interested in it.

—The Daily Journal, of Philipsburg, is kind enough to remark: "Our esteemed contemporary, the Bellefonte DAILY NEWS, is honorably growing up in years, and we can hardly believe it but it is nevertheless a fact that it has just entered upon its ninth volume. We are glad to know it is firmly established, and that prosperity attends it."

End of the First Week.

VERDICT, SENTENCES AND A VARIETY OF MISCELLANEOUS BUSINESS.

The jury in the case of Lazarus Moyer vs. Martin Hale, for money in account for whiskey, returned a verdict of $66.86 for the plaintiff.

Dr. R. L. Dartt said in his opinion Martin Foulk, one of the tramps, is an imbecile of the second class. He is a Russian German and when the District Attorney and C. M. Bower, Esq., talked to him in the beautiful Pennsylvania Dutch language (they both agree that they cannot talk genuine German) he understood some of their queries and answered them in a vacant, abstracted sort of a way, meanwhile looking about him as if he was pleased with the surroundings. The Court sentenced him to five days imprisonment.

Before two o'clock all the jurors except those on the case on trial were discharged, in time to go home on the 2·30 p. m. train.

REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY.

To the Honorable the Judges of Quarter Sessions of the peace in and for the county of Centre:

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, inquiring for the county of Centre, in all matters relating to the same, do respectfully report:

That they have acted upon nineteen bills of indictment of which sixteen were found true bills, and three were ignored.

We beg leave further to report: That we have visited and inspected the county buildings and find that the jail is undergoing repairs, which, when completed, will put it in good, condition, except the cellar under the jail, which should be more thoroughly ventilated and a water-pipe repaired. We find it clean, but a bad odor prevailing which would be completely removed by a current of air. The spouting on the outside of the sheriff's residence leaks badly, allowing the water to run down, defacing the walls and injuring the foundation.

We further report that we find the water closets and vaults at the rear of the Court House, to be in as good condition as they can under the circumstances be kept; they appear to be clean, but notwithstanding that are a nuisance and should be removed, substituting in their place closets more convenient to the court and county officials. We find that the vault in the register's and recorder's office is becoming too small for books that are accumulating, and some change in their shelving would afford a measure of temporary relief. We find the same with the vault in the commissioners office.

We would further recommend that an extension be made to the rear of the Court House, to extend back at least thirty feet; that the grand jury room be enlarged and a new Traverse jury room, witness room and sheriff's office be added to the rooms now in the building; also that water closets be placed in each jury room.

We respectfully tender our thanks to the Honorable Judges and District Attorney for their courtesy and assistance rendered us during our deliberations.

WM. P. LUCAS, foreman.

David S. Bechtol vs. Beech Creek Railroad Company was called for trial and all jurors not on that jury were discharged. The arrival of Senator Peale, of Lock Haven, who represented the defendant was awaited, until 5 o'clock p. m. Senator Peale has a style peculiarly his own in examining witnesses. It seems to be a very happy method. He is never harsh and don't attempt to browbeat witnesses. There is a coaking, personal significance in his voice, just as if he knew all about what the witness should answer, which has the effect of making the testiomy just what the Senator desires it to be. It might be termed a magnetic quality. To thus conduct examinations is preferable to the method adopted by many attorneys.

The Judge said: Gentlemen of the jury, this is an action brought by David S. Bechtol against the Beech Creek Railroad Company, to recover the value of three cattle killed along the line of the railroad, near Snow Shoe, where the cattle were pasturing.

The Court instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, David Bechtol, for the value of the cattle killed, with interest to date, which was $57.92.

State Republican League Formed.

LANCASTER, April 26.—The convention of republican clubs of the state was held here to-day for the purpose of organizing a state branch of the national league. The constitution of the national league was adopted after an amendment that the executive committee be composed of one representative from each senatorial district.

The committee on permanent organization reported in favor of A. C Robertson, of Pittsburgh, for permanent president and a vice president for each congressional district. They also suggested the following officers for the new state league: President, Edwin S. Stuart, Philadelphia; vice presidents, Everett Warren, Lackawanna, Burr McIntosh, Allegheny; John B. Rehm, Lancaster; treasurer, Captain William Thornton, Philadelphia; secretary, H. Townsend Fairbank, West Chester.

The report of the committee was unanimously adopted. General Gobin, from the resolutions committee, reported reaffirming the republican state platform and pledging the clubs to aid the regular party machinery in the campaign work. A resolution was also adopted that, while welcoming foreigners who propose to make their permanent home here, they condemn the importation of cheap foreign labor. Pittsburgh was selected for the place for the next meeting of the league, after which the convention adjourned.

Called on the Governor.

The Harrisburg Patriot of Wednesday morning relates the following: Charles Rohn, aged 11 years, called at the executive department yesterday. He said he had walked from Carlisle with the hope of seeing the Governor. Executive Clerk Boyle, with paternal affection, showed him into the Governor's private office. The lad gave no evidence whatever of embarrassment, and he talked with the Governor pretty much as the office-seeker would. He answered and asked questions like a little man, and told the Governor he had walked from Carlisle. "Well," said the Governor, "we must not see you walk back," and offered the boy a dollar with which to pay for his ticket home. "Oh, thank you" said the boy, "I have a sister living here and she will pay my way back." The little fellow was taken to the secretary's office and there he was presented with with a copy of the State's seal and other papers which were of no value, but he was elated with the gift and promised to have his mother put them in the parlor to keep for him until he grew up to be a man.

—The local article in last week's Centre Democrat, entitled "A Brave Act" and which is credited to the Lock Haven Democrat first appeared in the DAILY NEWS and the facts were collected with some labor by the writer of this. We didn't object when the Lock Haven paper copied it without credit, because that is of daily occurrence, but when the honest and frank Bible credits it to the Lock Haven Democrat we must demand an instant apology. Now, sir, explain, Mr. Bible, of the Centre Democrat, or stand convicted.

New Charters Granted.

Charters were granted at the State Department in Harrisburg, on Tuesday of this week to the following corportions:

Taylorville Building and Loan Association, of Lackawanna county; capital, $500,000.

Third Phein Building Association of Philadelphia; capital, $1,000,000.

Waynesburg Building and Loan Association, of Waynesburg, Green county; capital, $500,000.

Two Deaths.

The harvest of death seems to be very great just now. Every day there are two or more to record.

Mrs. Andrew Cramer, of Milesburg, died at 4 o'clock on Thursday morning. The funeral occurred at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Another death was that of the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. Wallace Keeler, of Logan street. This funeral also occurred Friday afternoon.

—Now we are obliged to reprove the Millheim Journal for crediting to the Lock Haven Democrat our famous local about Fireman Pyers and Engineer Cherry saving the life of a child. It appeared in the Daily Democrat on Monday, April 23. It appeared originally in the DAILY NEWS on Friday, April 20, of which the Daily Democrat article was an exact copy, except the title which was "Saving a Child's Life."

—Miss Lizzie Miller, of this place, saved a small boy's life on Thursday afternoon. She was passing near the round house when the boy fell from the bridge into the creek, which was flowing rapidly at that place. She extended her hand to him and quickly drew him safe to land, thus saving his life. There were some young men not far away, but Miss Miller's brave act was accomplished before they could arrive.

—As the days and weeks pass by the time of peculiar interest in the affairs of the State College is drawing nearer. There is to be an encampment of the students the last week of May and a location will doubtless be chosen near Bellefonte, which will be the base of supplies. After that the Seniors and Juniors will have examinations. By that time Commencement week will attract all the attention.

—If the object of the editor of the Watchman, in complaining of Court, is to have himself elected President Judge we fear he will sadly fail of the mark. The Watchman editor fits very well as a Democratic politician, he having qualifications which fit him admirably for the work, but as a President Judge he cannot be trusted. Be content, Brother Editor, to remain in your present position.

—Luther E. Stover, a juror on the case of Harris township vs. The Boalsburg turnpike company, received word on Wednesday at noon that his father was dangerously ill. So he was permitted to go home, the counsel on both sides consenting to conduct the case with only eleven jurors.

—Lawrence L. Brown has been made the member of the Republican State Central Committee from this county.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

HOW THE WORK OF WEDNESDAY WAS ACCOMPLISHED.

HARRISBURG, April 25.—S. H. Miller, of Mercer county, was elected temporary chairman.

At 12.45 the convention adjourned until 1 o'clock, when the committee on permanent organization reported.

At the reassembling, Hon. Jacob M. Campbell, of Cambria, was named as permanent chairman, and made a short but much more temperate speech than Mr. Miller, although it was tinged with considerable Blaineism.

Presentation of the names of candidates for supreme judge was next in order under the rules.

Colonel A. Wilson Norris presented the name of Judge James T. Mitchell, of Philadelphia; George T. Rodgers, of Jefferson county, presented the name of Chief Justice Gordon. Mr. Stowe, of Allegheny county, Mr. Sadler, of Cumberland, and Mr. Wickham, of Beaver, were also nominated.

The first ballot resulted: Mitchell 64, Gordon 56, Stowe 28, Sadler 44, Wickham 12. Mr. Wickham was then withdrawn.

The second ballot: Mitchell 86, Gordon 48, Stowe 26, Sadler 43.

Third ballot—Mitchell 94, Gordon 68. Sadler 42.

When the roll-call on the fourth ballot had been concluded the vote stood: Mitchell 102, Gordon 59, Sadler 42. This was within three of a nomination. The Berks county delegation then turned its five votes from Sadler to Mitchell, thus effecting his nomination amid a great deal of confusion, cheers hissing, and cat calls.

Death of Judge William Curtin Foley.

On Tuesday of last week Judge W. C. Foley died of apoplexy at his home in Clearfield. His age was 82 years. The Raftsman's Journal, of Clearfield, contains this notice of him:

"William Curtin Foley, was born in county Clare, Ireland, in 1819 and located at Bellefonte, the home of his uncle, Roland Curtin, father of ex-Governor Curtin. He was therefore a full cousin of the latter and grew up under the same roof with him. For a number of years he was manager of the iron works at Martha Furnace, Centre county. In 1838 he was married to Miss Anna Thompson of Warrior's Mark, Pa., and in 1844 he removed to Luthersburg, Clearfield county. For some nine years he resided at the latter place, and for six succeeding years at Pennville. In 1860 he removed to Clearfield and here he has resided to the day of his death.

Upon the death of Hon. James Bloom, an Associate Judge of this County, in 1865, W. C. Foley was appointed by Governor Curtin to fill the vacancy. Then after an intervening term he was elected to the same position and filled it for five years. Since that time he has lived the life of a quiet and highly respected private citizen.

Judge Foley's family consisted of six daughters: Nora, wife of Hon. John Patton, present member of Congress from this District; Mary, wife of W. V. Wright of Clearfield; Clara, wife of Rev. James McCord, of Altoona; Frances, wife of Wm. H. Patterson, of Houtzdale; Emma, wife of Dr. J. L. R. Heichhold, of Clearfield. Alice, the youngest daughter, was drowned in the river at this place when she was about twelve years of age."

—From information received in Altoon Saturday afternoon, the Altoona Times learned that Huntingdon had a jail delivery early in the morning of that day. When Sheriff Isenberg made his usual early inspection he found that the cell that had contained D. W. Stevens was empty and a hole in the wall told the story where D. W. Stevens had gone through. The Huntingdon jail is an old fashioned concern standing at the head of Third street, just where Mifflin crosses. Its architecture is of a remote period and the occupants or prisoners should never have a serious time to get free. Stevens didn't. He found the coal hole in the alley just the thing to get through, and through it he went in company with a boy, who had been an inmate of the same cell with him.

—Sometime ago a report appeared in the newspapers that Rev. T. Dewitt Talmage had served wine plentifully at a military dinner given by him. No sensible person believed the report when it was published, and it was really necessary for Talmage to deny it. But he does so in the most emphatic term and offers, as proof that not a drop of wine was served, the name of every soldier present. It is contemptible to circulate such reports. We believe that Dr. Talmage is not only a man of genius, but he is also consistent in his conduct.

Court Cullings.

The only case which came to trial on Monday was that of Susan Gates for use of Harry Gates vs. A. J. Griest—feigned issue. After Court adjourned a settlement in the case was reached by the parties', and the jury gave the verdict for the defendant, the verdict including the bay mare, "Maud," the buck board sleigh and the residue of the property described in the narrative.

A similar settlement was made of the case of O. C. Gates vs. A. J. Griest. The verdict in this case was the bay mare "Tops" for the plaintiff, and the remainder of the property for the defendant.

After this the Court called over the list of cases and found none of them ready for trial. He said that the next time the list is called those who are not ready will be non suited—a very proper deliverance for the Court.

About half of the jurors called to Court this week will not get paid as they are seldom in attendance when their names are called.

The case of McElwaine vs. Lucas was called for trial Tuesday morning.

Hot Weather Predicted.

The signal service officer at Philadelphia was asked yesterday, "what are the prospects for this hot wave?" "Well, you may expect unusually warm weather in May or in June. Why? These calculations show that up to date there has been a big deficiency, amounting to 217°, in the temperature as compared with the record for the past fifteen years. That is, the totals in temperature of each day since January 1 run that much behind other years. Now it has been found that the grand totals every year are very evenly balanced. According to the law of climate compensation, therefore, we may expect this deficiency to be made up during the next or succeeding month. We have had an unusually late winter, and this summer, I think, will be unusually warm.

Wallaceton Items.

The Fire Brick Co. of this place are having a slope dug east of town.

Frank Bressler, one of our enterprising young men is going to move to Blue Ball next week.

The woods between here and Blue Ball were on fire on Saturday. They were set on fire by sparks from passing locomotives.

The brick works of this place are only running half time. It seems that the trade is dull.

Several of our young men have gone to Penfield to work on saw mills.

FROST.

The Book Agent.

The Presbyterian contains a defence of the book agent—a defence the sentiments of which we are glad to echo. The universal abuse of the book agent is senseless and cruel. As a rule he resorts to the business as a means of livelihood only when other methods have vanished or when thrown suddenly on the cold charities of the world. It is certainly more commendable than to beg, yet the book agent is treated worse than a beggar. He is a benefactor, if he comes with a good book, and he deserves polite treatment and consideration. Yet he is made the butt of ridicule of even the scullion in the kitchen. Let us encourage him in this sole remaining effort to make an honest livelihood.

—Judge Mayer went to Williamsport on Saturday and the Williamsporters gazed with awe and admiration on the Judge whom the Supreme court never reverses.—Daily Democrat.

Awe and admiration, eh? Not at all likely. It is not natural for the Williamsporter to conceive of anything greater than himself. Most likely it was curiosity to see what sort of a person is filling the position aptly described in a recent letter by Senator Peale.

—The opinion seems to be growing that there will be no opposition to Judge Meyer for the Democratic nomination in this county at least.—Renovo News.

Why don't you measure that "opinion" to make sure about its growth? Then, it would be satisfactory to be sure that the "opinion" is big enough to be out doors. But the "opinion" will not nominate the Judge. He would rather see growth in the number of votes.

—In the past three years iron and steel to the value of $175,000,000 have been imported into this country, every pound of which we might have made and would have done so but for the competion of countries of low wages. Notwithstanding the tariff duties, lower wages, poorer food and less of it than labor has in America, made it possible to import this amount in competition with American labor.

M. E. General Conference.

The General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church met on Tuesday in New York, forming the largest ecclesiastical parliament in Christendom. It meets once in four years, and continues in session from one week to a month. It will have delegates from all parts of the world, China Japan, East Indies, Africa, Mexico, and from every great nationality in Europe.

The opening introductory sermon was given last Sunday by the Rev. Dr. John Rhye Thompson who preached on "The Providential character of Methodism" before a large congregation in the Washington Square Methodist Episcopal church at night.

Taking his text from the first verse of the CXVth Psalm, he said in part: "Is God in History? and if so, how shall we discover and trace His presence clearly to our own minds and convincingly to the minds of others?" The whole object of philosophical history is to show that human society moves to a definite end. There is such a thing as a "trend of events," a "drift of ages;" more and more it is seen that in "evolution of things" a moral purpose is distinctly had in view.

Events at Scotia.

BENORE, April 30, 1888.

Mr. D. M. Clemson, superintendent of Scotia ore mines, is daily expecting orders to put in motion the wheels of a large industrial plant located here.

J. Roller Gorsuch, our genial machinest, leaves to-morrow morning on a secret mission. Dame Rumor hath it, however, that when he returns he will bring a fair young lady along as his helpmate.

Harry Kephart, manager of the Scotia co-operative store, is the busiest man at Benore. The business of the firm is increasing rapidly under his management. This company is composed of employes of the Scotia Ore Mining Company and they have great reason to feel proud of their venture. So far it has proved a grand success to all concerned.

Meschich Williams, millwright, has charge of the erection of the new hoisting plane at this place. The firm of Wm. P. Duncan & Co., of Bellefonte, is constructing the machinery.

SPRING.

A Brilliant Social Event To-day.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock Miss Kate Curtin, the lovely and accomplished daughter of ex-Governor Curtin, of this place, was married to Mr. Moses DeWitt Burnett, of New York city. The ceremony took place at the Governor's mansion in the presence of a distinguished and brilliant assembly of guests. There were six bridesmaids. The occasion was one of rare elegance, perhaps never before equaled in the history of such events in this town, which has been the scene of numerous magnificent weddings.

We cannot give a detailed description of it this week but next week the REPUBLICAN will contain a complete and carefully written account of it. The bride and bridegroom enter most auspiciously upon their married life and we wish them a continuance of the joy which they now so fully realize.

Oh! for the Fourth!

Why not make the National festival of July 4, 1888, a notable one in Bellefonte? It is several years since our town has had a great celebration of this kind, and no trouble will be experienced if the firemen and citizens devote themselves to the enterprise. If we have such a celebration it will be important to begin operations now. Send out invitations to organizations at a distance and if they receive them as early as they receive invitations from other towns they will accept the ones from Bellefonte as it is well known that celebrations held here never fail of success. Then take advantage of this suggestion. Let the firemen, the military, the veterans and the citizens, in collective and in private capacities, unite in making the next natal day a great event.

—Randolph Nightingale, who, we stated was en route home from Florida, is now tarrying in Doylestown, Pa., with friends. The following from the Doylestown Daily Intelligencer shows that his stay in Florida was not without its exciting adventure: "Edward and Randolph Nightingale brought from Florida to Doylestown the skin of a large diamond-back rattlesnake which was killed and skinned by them near Clear Water Harbor, on the Gulf of Mexico, in Hillsborough county. It is over seven feet in length and a foot wide in the centre. Nine rattles are attached, and it is supposed that several have been broken off. The snake had two fangs, one of which was preserved, and is over half an inch long."

— Wm. Prelbery, Assistant Postmaster at Titusville, resigned his position on Monday, after on incumbency of 18 years. It is said he will publish a statement showing the unfitness of the present Democratic official, M. M. Allen, to hold the office. He has been pressed to work 13 to 14 hours per day through his superior's incompetency.

—A special to the Philadelphia Press from Washington, D. C., states that Senator Paddock, of Nebraska, introduced a bill which has been favorably reported, providing that a public building shall be erected in every town where the postal receipts amount to $3,000 yearly.

THE CROPS IN THE COUNTRY.

The crop report for last week says: Owing to the deficiency of rain the weather for the week has affected growing crops unfavorably. Rain is especially needed in the winter wheat sections and in the northern portions of the Gulf States. Frosts occurred in Kentucky, Eastern Tennesee, North Carolina, South Carolina, and in the middle Atlantic states during the week which probably injured vegtables and fruit. Reports from Kansas, Minnesota and Western Missouri indicate that the weather has been favorably advanced. The weather is reported favorable to farm work in New England, where plowing and planting are in progress.

The Philadelphia Weekly Press and the Republican for $2.00 a year.

New Music.

We have received from Richard A. Saalfield some of the brightest and loveliest gems of music—vocal and instrumental that has come to our table for a long time. Among the collection are the following:

"Rockaby Lullaby," by Chas. H. Williams. One of the prettiest little songs it has been our pleasure to receive in some time. Written in a simple way it strikes us as one of the best "Cradle Songs" we have ever seen.

"The Old Love Story," by Edwin Christie. A song written by the author of "Sweet Chiming Bells of Long Ago," and one of the best he has ever composed.

"White Sails in the Harbor," by J. P. Skelly. A splendid song and chorus The latter in "Waltz Tempo" is exceedingly taking.

"Pretty as a Butterfly," (Schottische) by Newcombe. An adaptation of the popular Song and Dance "Pretty as a Butterfly," and like that full of "go" and "esprit."

"Tripping Through the Clover," (Polka) by Ed. Holst. This piece written by one of our most successful composers is in style similar to "Tripping Through the Meadows." Without being difficult, it is very brilliant.

All the above retail for 40 cents. Sent postpaid at half price, ($1.00 for the lot), or 20 cents a piece by

RICHARD A. SAALFIELD,

Superior Stock.

Mr. John Reeser, of Fillmore, is peculiarly fortunate in the quantity of fine stock which he possesses, which are always interesting. The admiration for superior stock seems to be universal. Fat hogs, fine horses and all kinds of excellent cattle are included in the stock. Among them are eight colts, as graceful, beautiful and promising as any ever seen in this section. A famous cow belonging to Mr. Reeser has handsome twin calves, it being the third time her offspring have been twins.

—Improvements of an important description are in progress to the property in Half Moon township owned by Mr. George Clark. Both his residence and the barn on the premises are receiving additions and numerous other changes are being made among which is that of preparing for a large and excellent supply of fresh spring water. The spring from which the water is obtained is located on elevated ground not far from the house. From it he will pipe the water to all parts of the grounds and house.

—What is known as the Shoemaker farm in Patton township is owned by the popular superintendent of the Buffalo Run Railroad. The farm has a new occupant in the person of W. G. Furst, a live, progressive, prosperous and well known young farmer. No better agriculturist could have been secured to make its broad acres bloom like a rose in June. Mr. Furst is active as a citizen and prominent politically, he being the Republican chairman for Patton township.

—A festival is on the programme for next Saturday evening. It will be given under the auspices of the Woman's Relief Corps of Bellefonte, and promises to be very attractive in its tempting supplies of sandwiches, coffee, ice cream and cake. It will begin at 5 o'clock in the hall of Gregg Post, G. A. R., and continue during the evening. Just think of it, go to it and let the band play.

—Lauvertown, a small but progressive settlement near Pleasant Gap, is to have a new store and Mr. Henderson, son of Commissioner Henderson, will be the proprietor.

DIED.

RANKIN.—Charles W. Rankin, son of James and Mary Rankin, of Snow Shoe, died April 20, aged 6 years, 11 months and 8 days.

We lay thee in thy silent tomb,
Sweet blossom of a day—
We just begun to view thy bloom
When thou wast called away.

This lovely child thus torn
From our fond home away,
With silent grief is gently born
To its lone bed of clay.

But thou shalt yet in beauty
Bloom a plant of Paradise,
And gladden with a sweet perfume
Our mansion in the skies,
